CONFESSES ATTACKS ON TWO SISTERS

Swift Trip to Electric Chair Promised as Thousands of Searchers Fill Streets.

CRUSHED BODIES FOUND

Suspect Wise-Cracks With Police While Victims Are Hunted.

(By United Press)

BEDFORD HILLS, N. Y.—Impelled by a "sudden urge," 17-year-old Edward Haight went "woman hunting" and after several failures kidnaped, raped, tortured, mutilated, and murdered two little sisters, one seven, the other eight.

Unrepentant, light-hearted even, he told state police and District Attorney Elbert T. Gallagher the details of the crime. Satisfied of his legal sanity, Gallagher promised that his progress to the electric chair would be swift.

Gallagher's promise was partly for the benefit of several thousand men who were in the streets of this village and who helped police search for the body of one of the victims through most of the night. State police maintained a heavy guard over Haight, who was charged with murder and kidnaping.

The body of Helen Lynch, 8, was found at 1 a. m. in the Kensico reservoir, which is part of the New York City water system. The head had been crushed by an automobile wheel and her arms and legs were bound. Haight had sat in a parked police automobile while volunteers dragged the reservoir, making wise-cracks to his guards.

Late yesterday afternoon, the body of Helen's sister, Margaret, 7, was found floating in a shallow creek several miles away. Her ankles were bound and the side of her head had been crushed.

CONVOY RAIDED

Allies Admit Heavy Attack In Atlantic, Deny Losses.

LONDON—(U.P.)—Official circles admitted today that Axis submarines had made a heavy attack on an Allied convoy in the Atlantic, but denied German claims that 19 of the ships had been sunk.

"There has been a heavy U-boat attack on one of our Atlantic convoys," a spokesman said, "but the Germans' claims to have sunk 19 ships are nowhere near the truth."

(The German radio claimed 19 ships, totaling 120,000 tons had been sunk in the convoy battle. It announced that Lieut. Comdr. Rolf Muetzelburg, submarine ace and holder of the knight's cross of the iron cross, with oak leaves, had been lost in the battle.)

GREEN TEA OUT

WPB Halts Sale, Except In Tiniest of Packages.

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Green tea will be unobtainable by the public under an order issued today by the War Production board.

WPB froze for government purchase all green tea held by importers, packers, wholesalers and jobbers and not already packed in quarter-pound or smaller packages.

WPB said green tea already is fast disappearing from grocers' shelves, since this country's principal sources of supply were China and Japan.

Big Ore Carrier Leaves for Duluth and First Cargo.

LORAIN —(U.P.)— The new 640-foot ore carrier Benjamin F. Fairless, latest addition to the Pittsburgh Steamship fleet and the fourth of five similar ships to be completed, left last night on her maiden trip to Lake Superior for her first iron ore cargo.

U.S. Prepares All-Purpose Ration Books

Four More to Be Issued; Fuel Oil Limit Starts In Ohio Oct. 1.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—The office of price administration today announced that four "all purpose" ration books are being printed for distribution to the American public, after the government moved on three fronts to ration fuel oil in 30 states and clamp down nation-wide gasoline and meat rationing.

Developments included:

1. WPB Chairman Donald Nelson ordered fuel oil rationing in the Atlantic shortage area of 17 states and in 13 midwestern states, starting Oct. 1.

2. Nelson appointed William M. Jeffers, president of the Union Pacific railroad, as the nation's new rubber administrator "in complete charge of the entire rubber program."

3. The WPB chairman also delegated his authority to ration meat to the OPA in what was regarded as the forerunner of meat rationing for the consumer.

4. The OPA announced that 150,000,000 copies of the first "all purpose" ration books are being printed, with distribution scheduled for "shortly before Christmas."

GET NEW TIP ON STOLEN TIRES

Police in Columbus to Recover More Reported Stolen By Mansfield Youth.

Advised that several tires allegedly stolen from Mansfield autos by Richard Wymer, 19, of 607 Fairfax avenue, had been sold in Columbus, Plainclothesman Herbert G. Palmer and Clare W. Kyler, assistant identification officer, were in the capital today on a recovery mission.

If successful, the Columbus reclamation project will raise to more than 20 the number of tires and wheels which Wymer, in a confession last Saturday, said he sold to Thomas E. McVey, filling station manager at North Main and Fifth streets. Equipment was taken from cars parked on streets and in garages or lots of defense plants.

Yesterday Wymer was held to the county grand jury under $4,000 bond when he pleaded guilty in Municipal court to the charge of grand larceny. McVey, who also made admission statements to police, entered through counsel a plea of not guilty to the charge of receiving stolen property.

Today a relative of Wymer removed three of the stolen tires from the youth's car and returned them to the police station where a growing pile of recovered rubber is filling the property room.

CARRIER LOSS IN BATTLE OF MIDWAY BARED

Navy Reveals 19,000-Ton Ship and Destroyer Sunk During June.

CASUALTIES UNCHANGED

Giant Craft Sent To Bottom While Being Towed, Three Days After First Hit.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—The navy announced today that the 19,000-ton aircraft carrier Yorktown was sunk by an enemy submarine after being damaged during the battle of Midway in June, bringing to two the number of such craft lost in the Pacific conflict.

The other carrier was the 33,000-ton Lexington which was destroyed by internal explosions and fire after escaping during the battle of the Coral sea early in May.

Strangely enough there was a parallel between the sinking of both the Yorktown and the Lexington, inasmuch as the Yorktown was being towed to port when an enemy submarine scored two torpedo hits amidships on the carrier and another two on the destroyer Hammann which was alongside.

The navy previously had listed the Yorktown as "put out of action" and actually she was not sunk until three days after she was hit in the early stages of the Midway battle. The destroyer Hammann previously was announced as sunk.

Announcement of the loss of the Yorktown does not change the casualties in the Midway battle, a total of 307 officers and enlisted men, the navy said.

County Sales Tax Down 21 Per Cent; Ohio Average Up 5

While sales tax receipts throughout Ohio were showing a gain of nearly five per cent during the first week of September over the corresponding week last year, collections dropped 21 per cent in Richland county, State Treasurer Don Ebright's report showed today.

It was the first time in 28 weeks that the state-wide collections were greater than in the corresponding week of 1941. Rationing and war priorities had kept buying down and curtailed the collection of the sales tax.

Richland county receipts amounted to $10,230 during the week ending Sept. 5 as compared with $13,011 for the first week of the month last year.

The state-wide gain was attributed to the business stimulation resulting from the opening of schools and colleges and fall buying of clothing. Biggest gains were in the sale of clothing, food, and furniture.

Retail buying in Richland county has produced $489,513 so far this year, $127,764 less than was

New U.S. Rubber Czar Steps In Swinging

Jeffers Calls for Action, Not Talk On 'Tough Job.' Navy Air Chief

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — William M. "Bill" Jeffers, bald, stocky, office boy-to-president of the Union Pacific railroad, stepped in swinging today as the nation's new rubber czar.

"I am already at work," the 66-year-old railroader declared last night, as Production Chief Donald M. Nelson announced Jeffers had been picked for what Nelson called "one of the toughest" jobs in the war program.

Charged with re-organizing, consolidating and administering the government's efforts to alleviate the rubber shortage, Jeffers is expecte dto become, in effect, complete boss over the rubber reserve company and all other government agencies in matters affecting the rubber program.

"I am placing Mr. Jeffers in this post with the approval of the president," Nelson delared, "and I am delegating to him all my authority. From this point on, any problem connected with rubber is a matter for Mr. Jeffers' decision, and I know he will do this job."

Indicating he intended to use the authority given him, Jefefrs declared he would do "whatever is necessary to carry out the assignment."

WILLIAM M. JEFFERS

"We do not need talk—we need action," he said.

Blunt, outspoken and energetic, Jeffers was regarded as a choice obviously dictated by Nelson's desire to have the rubber program directed by an executive with no roots in the rubber or petroleum industries.

Bucyrus Deputy, Car Thief In Gun Battle at Station

Shots Exchanged After Gunman Attempts to Give Tire In Exchange for Gas; Officer Suffers Burns.

BUCYRUS—Eluding posses after an exchange of shots with Deputy Sheriff Ralph Schreck at a filling station near here last night, a Chicago auto thief today is the object of a police hunt throughout north-central Ohio.

When the gunman stopped at the Point Place station two miles west of here about 9:30 p. m. and sought to exchange a spare tire for gasoline, the station operator notified Sheriff Albert French who detailed Deputy Schreck.

Schreck hastened to the scene but the stranger had disposed of the tire and was getting motor fuel at the station pump. When the deputy asked to see his registration card the man grabbed a gun from the seat beside him and opened fire.

With powder burns on his face and left sleeve, Schreck barricaded himself behind a truck, exchanging 10 or 12 shots with the gunman who darted from the car to the rear of the station, escaping into a cornfield.

Officers were summoned from Marion and Galion. Aided by officers from adjoining counties and state highway patrolmen fields and buildings in the vicinity were searched throughout the night without result.

Several exploded revolver shells were found in one of the fields.

According to police radio messages the abandoned car was stolen in Chicago three weeks ago. Several suitcases crammed with varying sizes of clothing were confiscated by Sheriff French along with the auto.

2ND RABID DOG

Health Chief Renews Warning To Owners of Pets.

Definite development of rabies in a second dog which has been under surveillance for several days was reported today by Dr. W. B. Wild, city-county health commissioner, who renewed his warning and instructions to pet owners.

More than 100 dogs are being confined away from roaming dogs in the northwest section of the city following definite diagnosis Saturday that a dog which had died in "fits" was a rabies victim. The animal's head was analyzed at the state health laboratories.

The second animal was taken to a veterinary Monday when it showed symptoms of dullness and sullenness. Vaccination, it is said, is a certain safeguard against hydrophobia and is mandatory in some states.

15,000 See Film Notables In Tour of City and at JAC Victory Luncheon.

CORSAGES ADD $1,500

Fred Astaire, Ilona Massey, and Hugh Herbert Have Busy Day in City.

By ESTHER SMITH

Spurred by the appeals of a trio of Hollywood movie stars Mansfield bought war saving bonds to the tune of $76,000 yesterday and turned out by the thousands to see and hear the blond singing star, Ilona Massey, dancer Fred Astaire, and Hugh Herbert, the "Woo Woo" comedian, boost the U. S. treasury's "10 Per Cent" wage deduction plan for buying bonds.

More than 15,000 persons attended the rallies staged at three of the city's industrial plants and in Central park where the trio closed a whirlwind campaign that began with a Junior Association of Commerce luncheon at the Mansfield-Leland hotel. Downtown stores closed for one hour in the afternoon to permit employes to attend the Central park rally.

It was a hectic day for the stars. They made three appearances in Akron yesterday before coming here and other rallies followed last night in Marion where $101,178 was subscribed. Workers at two of the industries missed seeing Hugh Herbert because the comedian took time out to rest before the public rally.

Approximately $71,000 in bonds was sold at the luncheon where a capacity audience of 250 paid a "cover charge" of $76 to gain a close-up of the visiting celebrities. Admission to the luncheon was a $75 war bond and the $1 cost of the luncheon ticket.

Big Group From Mansfield To Receive Army Physicals.

One of the largest contingents of selectees to leave the Board 1 district in Richland county since induction began will go to Cleveland Thursday for physical examinations and final induction into the army.

Boards 2 and 3 will send large groups for induction early next week. All of the men who are accepted and sworn in now will have two weeks at home before they leave for induction centers unless they prefer to leave immediately.

The registrants who will take their final examinations during the next few days represent Richland county's September quota although most of them will not go into the army until early in October.

Jap Do-or-Die Drive Starts On Solomons

Americans Fighting Off Furious New Thrusts by Air, Land and Sea.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — Japan's expected grand-scale drive to recapture the Solomon islands and again point a dagger at the Australian lifeline appeared developing with a do-or-die fury today.

Battle-tired American forces were fighting back savagly and thus far successfully.

The navy reported last night that "heavy fighting" had been in progress by land, sea and air since Saturday night and that while details were lacking "reports received to date indicate that the marines are maintaining their positions."

Creation of a new air command for the United States Pacific fleet and a shift in command of the southwest Pacific Allied air forces indicated a tightening of grand strategy for the developing battle, a battle into which the Japanese war lords undoubtedly would throw all their available striking power.

Despite counterattacks on Japanese bases to the north and northwest of the main American stronghold on Guadalcanal island, the navy reported the enemy was bringing pressure to bear with apparently increasing force, and had succeeded in landing small detachments of troops who tried vainly to recapture the Japanese-built airfield under cover of shelling by surface craft offshore.

While his bombers sought to distract possible supporting moves by attacking enemy shipping and supply bases over a wide area from New Britain to the Tanimbar islands, General Douglas MacArthur announced the appointment of Maj. Gen. George C. Kenney as commander of Allied air forces in the area.

Nazis Inch Ahead But Reds Stand As Winter Hits Soviet Front.

(By Associated Press)

MOSCOW—The indomitable defenders of Stalingrad, under a grinding assault by land and air, wavered slightly but held their lines firm today, the 23rd since the German besiegers lunged at the Volga city with every weapon at their command.

The Soviet command acknowledged that heavy concentrations of Nazi tanks and infantry, preceded by large air forces, had inched ahead slightly in a narrow sector on the west of Stalingrad's defense wing.

Other advices said the gain probably was no more than a few hundred yards and that defiant Red army lines apparently were intact. It was the only change reported in 12 hours.

The Germans' dive-bombing was some of the heaviest of the war, and Red Star, attributing most of the enemy successes to its air might, conceded the gravity of Stalingrad's plight because of mass bombing raids.

But Russia definitely felt the first bite of winter. In Moscow, the inhabitants donned overcoats because of the coolest autumn day so far. Virtually the same weather prevailed at Stalingrad.

(The Germans, without specifying, reported gaining "considerable additional ground" at Stalingrad and acknowledged that the Red army was attacking in force at Voronezh and Rzhev, likely anchors of a Nazi winter line.)

South of Voronezh, about midway between Stalingrad and Moscow, Red Star said Russian forces had recaptured three heights and had repulsed five enemy attacks in one seclor, defeating two Hungarian regiments, two German battalions and wrecking 20 tanks.

ATTACK: RAF Batters Docks At Cherbourg, Radios Silent

(By United Press)

LONDON—Royal Air Force coastal command planes attacked the docks at German-held Cherbourg last night, the air ministry announced today.

At the same time, radio stations in Berlin and Budapest left the air, indicating that Russian planes were ranging Axis-held eastern Europe, carrying out raids to match the devastation spread by British bombers over western Europe during the last three nights.

Budapest radio left the air early, after warning listeners that enemy aircraft could be expected from the northeast. It returned to the air some hours later, advising its audience that the danger was over.

The Budapest broadcasts made no comment on whether raiding planes had approached the city.

Other European stations, notably in Luxembourg, Friesland, Breslau, Bremen and Berlin, also left the air.

The air ministry's communique on the Cherbourg raid was brief. It announced only that the attack was carried out without loss.

Official sources said the raid was made by escorted Boston bombers. The second anniversary of the end of Germany's attempts to knock out Britain in daylight raids passed almost without incident.

(Radio Berlin, quoting an official news agency dispatch, said German planes raided the northeastern English port of Boston.)

SURRENDER: French Give Up In Northwestern Madagascar

(By Associated Press)

LONDON—A new British landing on Madagascar has caused the surrender of remaining French forces in one northwest coast area, the British East Africa command announced today, as radio reports from the Vichy-controlled island, still lacking official confirmation, said its government was seeking terms with the British.

Governor General Armand Annet, the reports said, has asked for a cease firing order and terms to end the hostilities.

This was not mentioned in the British communique, which reported the invading troops proceeding steadily toward the island capital with more than half the distance covered.

Of the new landing, it said only:

"On the northwest coast, the pressure of our column moving down from Ambanja, combined with a further successful landing from the sea in the Maromandia area further south, has resulted in the surrender of remaining French forces between those two places."

A radio broadcast picked up at Port Louis Mauritius, said governor General Armand Annet of Madagascar was sending plenipotentiaries to the British commander asking for a "cease fire" order and the opening of negotiations. This was confirmed by the radio station at Diego Suarez, which is held by the British, Reuters said.

Allen, AP Writer, Believed Axis Prisoner

(By Associated Press)

CAIRO—Alone of three American correspondents who went with the British in the sea-borne raid on Tobruk, Larry Allen, Associated Press war correspondent and current Pulitzer prize winner for international reporting, has failed to return and it was virtually certain today that he has become an Axis prisoner.

Reliable information has reached Cairo that Allen was the newspaperman whose capture was announced by the Rome radio yesterday. The broadcast withheld his name.

Now the return of the fleet without him and another 24 hours of silence from the missing correspondent crushes the last hope that he might have evaded enemy capture.

It is probable that Allen either got ashore on enemy territory and was captured or that he was picked up from the sea.

The 34-year-old Allen, a native of Mount Savage, Md., has been an eye witness to virtually every action involving the British fleet in the Mediterranean.

His work, notably his story of the fierce German bomber attack on the aircraft carrier Illustrious, won the Pulitzer prize for international reporting in 1941.

Later he survived another brush with death on the line of battle when the British cruiser Galatea was sunk under him.

He joined the Associated Press Washington bureau in September, 1935, and sailed for Europe in

In addition, an enemy warship was damaged when marine shore batteries replied to its shelling on the night of Sept. 12-13, making at least 20 Japanese ships sunk and damaged in the campaign to date.

No change was reported in the mountain fighting 40 miles north of Port Moresby where the Japanese had been stopped in their push across New Guinea, although increasing patrol activity was noted.

Hints New Step By Japs in Asia

LONDON —(AP)— The British Broadcasting corporation's monitoring service reported today it had picked up a Tokyo broadcast quoting General Shunroku Hata, Japan's commander-in-chief in China, as declaring that "the east Asia war is about to take an important step in co-operation with the European war."

(Such a step might be a Japanese invasion of India, one purpose of which would be to form a junction with the German's driving into the middle east, or it might be an attack on Russian Siberia timed to coincide with a Nazi victory at Stalingrad.)

Allies Raid Rabaul, And Buna Base

GEN. MacARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, Australia—(U.P.)—Allied air forces have raided the strong Japanese base at Rabaul, New Britain, and delivered another powerful blow at Buna, northern New Guinea base of the enemy drive against Port Moresby, Gen. Douglas MacArthur announced today.

While Flying Fortresses and medium bombers struck at enemy bases, constant skirmishing was reported in the Owen Stanley mountains, where the Japanese drive on Moresby remained stalled near Efogi, 44 miles north of the port.

MacArthur's communique disclosed that the Fortresses executed the first raid since Aug. 31 against Rabaul, on the northeastern tip of New Britain. New Britain lies northeast of New Guinea.

The big planes smashed at shipping in Rabaul's harbor, setting one large cargo ship afire. One intercepting Japanese Zero-fighter was shot down.

STALINGRAD'S DEFENSES HOLD

Don in this region also was reported.

Red navy sailors athwart the Axis path down the Black Sea coast from Nazi-occupied Novorossisk were declared to have flung back an attack in one sector and wiped out enemy infantry forces elsewhere during a three-day fight.

The Germans lodged their new wedge in Stalingrad's western defenses only at heavy cost and artillery and anti-tank rifles alone accounted for half a dozen Nazi tanks, the communique said.

"Southwest of Stalingrad," it reported, "Red army men repulsing enemy attacks destroyed two tanks, and several guns and wiped out about a battalion of German infantry. In another sector the men of one unit wiped out 200 Hitlerites, destroyed five tanks, ten trucks and artillery battery."

Stalingrad mortar batteries destroyed 40 German tanks in holding a narrow sector against an attack by hundreds of tanks and several rifle regiments seeking to advance at all costs, the Moscow radio declared.

Armaments plants were reported maintaining production and smoke from their chimneys blended with the fumes from bomb-blasted areas of the Volga river industrial city.

The midnight communique indicated that the fortunes of battle elsewhere rested with Soviet arms.

It declared:

German troops were thrown from two settlements in the Mozdok area of the Central Caucasus; the invaders lost 1,000 men and seven tanks in an attack upon Russian positions in the upper Don basin south of Voronezh; tank-borne Nazi infantrymen in Red army uniforms were detected and routed as they sought to move to the Red army rear on the central front; Soviet patrols derailed three German railway trains.

"Southwest of Stalingrad fierce fighting continues," the communique said. "The Germans on one sector succeeded in advancing. Our men counterattacked and regained the lost position. Seven damaged tanks were left on the battlefield and about two companies of enemy troops were dispersed.

A dispatch from the Central Caucasus said the city of Nalchik, roughly 30 miles south of the Nazi-occupied roalroad town of Prok-Hladnenski, remained in Russian hands, but the inhabitants were preparing for an attack.

Farmers are helping to fortify the city's lines, it was said.

Railways of Stalingrad are under constant attack, but they operate on a 24-hour basis even when bombing requires frequent halts, Red Star said.

Stalingrad has rail lines northward in the direction of Moscow, westward across the Don bend and southwestward through Kotelnikovski and a belt line connecting these three outside the city.

Reports said the Germans lost 3,000 men in a single sector where they attempted to capture a hospital building in an outlying section of Stalingrad.

The army news paper said in several places west of Stalingrad fierce attacks gained the Germans some wedges in the Russian defenses, but most of these salients, Russian forces closed in again and forced the Nazis out.

3 BOYS HELD

Apprehended at Ashland Hour After Accident Here.

An hour after their auto struck and injured a man at East Dickson and Franklin avenues this morning, three Erie, Pa., youths were captured by Ashland police acting on radio broadcasts from Mansfield and state highway police.

M. R. Rader, Loudonville, received treatment for head injuries at General hospital. He was knocked down while walking across the intersection. The youthful hit-skippers told Ashland police they continued on their way when they saw the victim of their car rise from the pavement.

Mansfield police returned the boys to city jail here this afternoon.

YOUTH ADMITS TORTURE DEATH OF TWO GIRLS

Confesses Attacks on Sisters and Wise-Cracks as Police Hunt Bodies.

bodies, police arrested Haight in the two room shack near Stamford, Conn., in which he lived with his father and brother. Though he had never been arrested before, several persons had been sufficiently impressed by the nature of casual conversation, they had had with him recently to direct police to him. Confronted by circumstantial evidence, Haight readily confessed and directed authorities to Helen's body.

Before dawn Monday, he stole a station wagon from the driveway of the home of Cornell Harra, a New York City businessman who lives at Stamford. He made attempts to accost two women during the day and then met the Lynch girls on their way to meet their father.

Their father, Patrick Lynch, 46, is a salesman for the Donald Brush company, of Camden, N. J. Their mother has spent most of the last six years in Grasslands hospital at Eastview, N. Y., bedridden with tuberculosis. There are two older girls who live with relatives. With the aid of neighbors and friends, Lynch had managed to keep the two young ones with him.

Haight invited the children to ride with him to their home. As soon as he was outside the village, he bound and gagged both, using a length of dirty awning cord which, he admitted, he had carried around all day with that in mind. Then he drove to lonely Long Ridge road where he stopped the car and raped both.

Then he drove back through the town with the bound and gagged girls on the floor of the station wagon and when he reached a bridge which crosses Beaver Dam brook, he tried to throw Margaret from the car into the shallow stream. At this point, she was alive. She struck the bridge rail, and fell on the pavement. Haight said he believed this fall killed her.

He stopped the car and put Margaret's body back in alongside her sister and drove back to the village where he parked and went into a stationery store and bought a package of razor blades, with the intention, he said, of mutilating Margaret's body. Driving back to the bridge, he slashed and jabbed her with a knife and threw the body into the brook.

Helen, bound and gagged, still was on the floor of the station wagon. He drove to a lonely road near Armonk village, where he lifted her out and flung her onto the road. He kicked her until her head was pressed against the left rear wheel of the car. He then drove the car back and forth several times. He put the body back into the car and drove to the main highway, then to a bridge over one of the large creeks feeding into Kensico reservoir—a distance of several miles. There he stopped and threw the body in.

SUSPENDS CHIEF

Manager Says Officer Was Injured In Fist Fight.

PIQUA — (INS) — City Manager Wilbur J. Waldwin suspended Police Chief Frank Strickling for 60 days for conduct unbecoming an officer.

Waldwin said reports from Columbus indicated Strickling was confined to a hospital for several days recovering from injuries suffered in a fist fight in that city.

GRANDFATHER GOES TO WAR

METHUEN, Mass. —(U.P.)— John Rossi, 60-year-old Italian grandfather, who couldn't get his wife's permission to join the army in World War I because of two small children, now is bandmaster of an American infantry division "somewhere in Australia."

RUBBER CZAR WANTS ACTION

Jeffers 'Steps in Swinging' as He Takes Over New Duties.

If the recommendations of the president's rubber committee, headed by Bernard M. Baruch, are carried out in full, Jeffers will take over control of funds for the program, thus far handled by the federal loan agency.

Among other things, to carry out the Baruch committee proposals, Jeffers must work out a 100,000-ton increase in butadiene output, to come into production in six months; build facilities for production of 100,000,000 gallons of alcohol for use in the synthetic rubber program, and boost synthetic production to the point where it will be possible to relax restrictions somewhat on civilian driving.

The Baruch report noted that there was "grave danger" that construction delays might hold up the present synthetic program as much as four months, leaving rubber supplies next year insufficient even for military needs.

"This means I have a tough job," Jeffers declared. "But it is also a job for all the people of the United States. The biggest stockpile of rubber we have is on the wheels of our automobiles. I ask every motorists, every truck-driver, everybody who runs a car, to remember that he is now the custodian of a material more precious than gold."

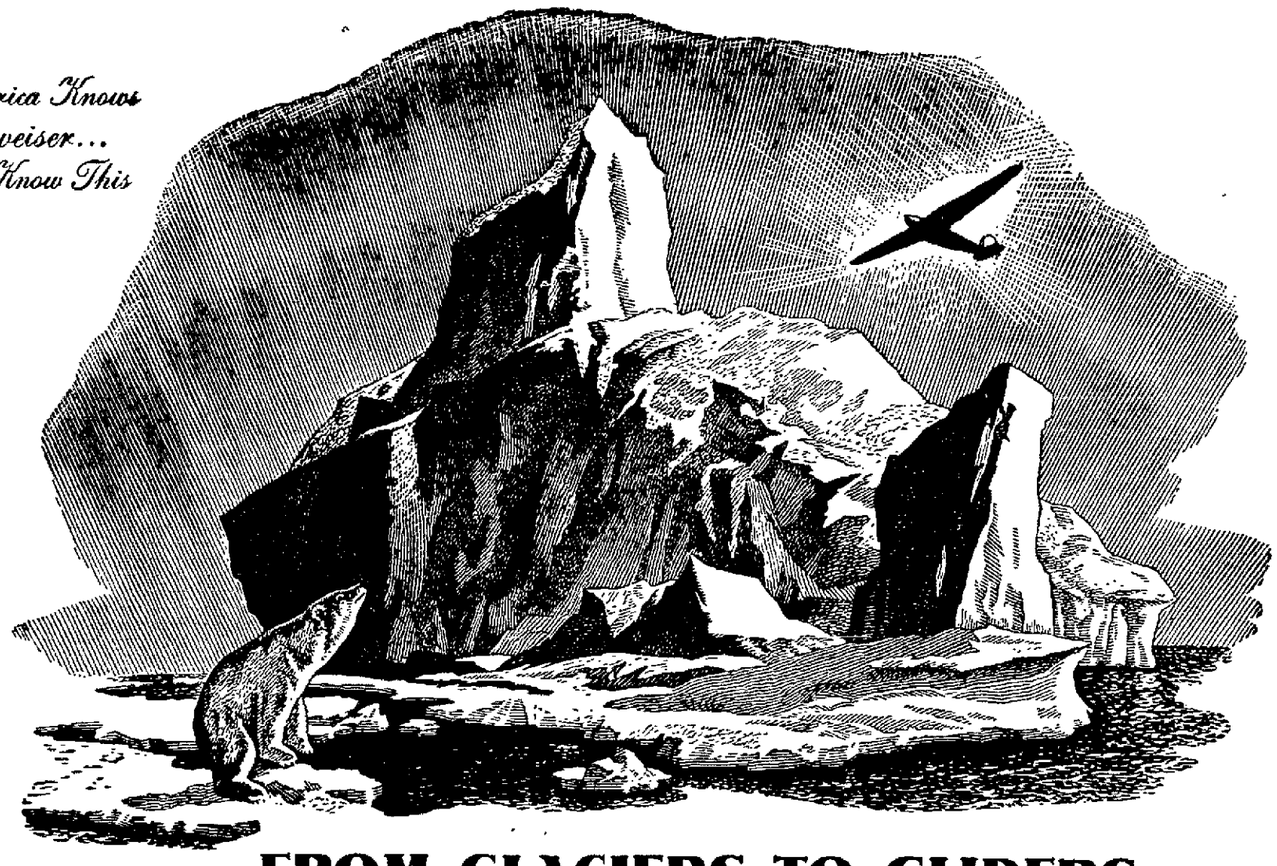
All America Knows Budweiser... but Few Know This



FROM GLACIERS TO GLIDERS

Thousands of retailers of ice cream and frozen foods are using equipment made by our Refrigeration Division—a manufacturing activity which was developed from our years of experience in making ice in glacier-like quantities needed for the brewing of Budweiser.

This equipment is helping to keep America's foods fresher and more nutritious.

Today, however, orders for ice cream and food cabinets will have to wait, for this Division is working all-out on glider wing and fuselage assemblies for our Army Air Forces.

Year after year, we have striven with research and resources to better the methods and facilities for brewing Budweiser. To do this, a laboratory specializing in fermentology and nutrition was necessary. Discoveries made in the laboratory and in the plant have led to the development of products contributing to human necessity and progress. Some of these products would appear to have only a remote relationship to brewing, yet, they are the result of scientific research into many allied fields.

Endless research in making the world's leading beer has led to other products

VITAMINS, B COMPLEX—Our plant is one of the world's largest sources for manufacturers of pharmaceutical and food products.

VITAMIN D—Anheuser-Busch produces enough of the basic material for Vitamin D to supply the entire American market.

BAKER'S YEAST—We are one of America's biggest suppliers of standard and enriched yeasts and malt syrup used to make bread.

CORN SYRUP—many millions of pounds annually for America's candy industry.

SYRUPS—for food, table and confectionery uses and special syrups for medicinal purposes.

STARCH—for food, textile, paper and other industries—millions of pounds annually.

VITAMINS FOR LIVESTOCK—We are America's biggest supplier of yeast vitamins used to fortify animal feeds.

DIESEL ENGINES—Adolphus Busch, founder of Anheuser-Busch, acquired the first rights to manufacture this revolutionary engine in America and thus started our great Diesel industry on its way.

PHOTOS BLAST PARADISE TRIP

Mennonites Who Decline to Have Pictures Taken Refused Passports.

(By United Press)

BAREVILLE, Pa. — Thirty members of three families of God-fearing Mennonites refuse to have their photographs taken and thereby have barred themselves from a South American "paradise."

The state department demands photographs accompany passports required for emigration of the Mennonites to the farmlands in the Gran Chaco of Paraguay, but not even tales of pastures there that "grow without being planted," sweet corn "10 feet high," and fence posts that "last 40 years," could sway the group from their religious scruples against world images.

The three families, whose members, according to Mennonite tradition, have no buttons on their clothes, never ride in automobiles and shun worldly affairs, planned the emigration this month. They arranged for sale of their Lancaster county farms and applied for passports.

Then came word that photographs must accompany the passports. This, according to the sect's tradition, would be a violation of one of their deepest religious beliefs. They decided to give up the South American "Garden of Eden."

The Paraguayan colony was founded in 1926. It consists of 3,000,000 acres in the Chaco wilderness.

WEARS EVIDENCE TO COURT

SAN DIEGO, Cal.—(U.P.)—Robert Ollie Duke, youthful Negro, made the fatal error of wearing into court the coat he was charged with stealing. "That's mine," the complainant exclaimed and the evidence was all in.

HEDY FAILS TO SHAKE SHYNESS

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M.—(U.P.)—Albuquerque citizens still are shaking their heads over the strange case of the man who turned down the opportunity to kiss Hedy Lamarr 10 times.

The anonymous individual purchased a $10,000 war bond at an Albuquerque rally but did not claim his privilege of kissing the raven-haired Hollywood beauty who had offered a kiss to each purchaser of a $1,000 bond.

THE CITY LOAN Cuts Family Expenses

Our loan number 730289 is a new post office employee who preferred working for the Government even at a smaller income. However, his bills and debts were more than he could handle. After reading our ad, he came to us for the money just as others had done. His loan was made and his debts were paid in full. To his pleasant surprise, his loan payments were cut in two and he had nearly twice as much to live on as before. "Just like a raise in pay," says he.

Mansfield News-Journal

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 16, 1942.

Let criticism, constructive or destructive, follow as faults develop, but let us avoid continued opposition to the course adopted.—Stanley Reed.

Now That Glamour Has Departed

GLAMOUR came to Mansfield yesterday to highlight September war bond selling, succeeded magnificently in arousing public enthusiasm, and has now departed.

Today there are no Hollywood stars here to urge the purchase of war bonds, no rose from the bouquet of a beautiful songstress to award the buyer of $2,000, or $1,000, or $500 worth of bonds.

It was nice to have seen and heard agile Fred Astaire, delightful Miss Ilona Massey and frolicsome Hugh Herbert, and it's mighty fine of them to go about the country as they are doing to stimulate the sale of war savings bonds.

But they can't be here every day, nor can Mansfield provide daily spectacular features to induce bond buying.

All that can be offered today, as a bond-buying inducement, is the prosaic statement: "Buy war savings bonds to help save your country from invasion by barbarian hordes; your homes from destruction and yourselves from enslavement."

Not much of an appeal, to be sure, when compared with opportunity to see movie stars, being handed a rose by a charming young woman, and being lured to higher bids by the hypnotic voice of Mansfield's premier master of ceremonies, Gil Baird.

But there's something, after all, in the argument that investment in war bonds provides an important part of the money that the government must have, to pay for ships, planes, tanks, guns and other military equipment necessary to winning the war.

And possibly, when the subject is given serious thought, it may be deemed more important to win the war than to see movie stars.

Be Ready for the Unexpected

THE WORK of precinct wardens in the civilian defense setup is not like that of a committee in which the chairman is supposed to do it all. Each must do his part or the whole effort fails.

Designation as "air raid wardens" has possibly served to be confusing as the public mind in this community has not yet become adjusted to the idea of enemy bombers ever coming over Mansfield.

The danger seems as remote as it probably did to the people of England five years ago—people who have since undergone the horrors of destructive air raids and to whom blackouts have become commonplace.

It may be that some "air raid wardens" are not yet taking their responsibilities seriously, and, as Glenn W. Marriott, chief warden, says: "There is an apparent apathetic psychology existent"—which, in simplified form, means that too many people are "asleep at the switch."

However unlikely an air raid over Mansfield may be, common sense dictates that there should be some advance preparations for whatever community dangers develop as a result of war, and knowledge of blackout procedure is among the fundamentals.

If, instead of "air raid wardens," these volunteer workers could be known as "civilian defense wardens," their immediate duties would be better understood and the information given residents of their area might be more seriously regarded.

The Piqua blackout fiasco should not be repeated in Mansfield when the time comes for a test blackout here. What the signal is to be, and what people in their homes and elsewhere are expected to do when the signal comes, should be known by everybody.

War Powers Are Temporary

THE AMERICAN people do not want civil dictatorship in peace or war. But they do want, and need, leadership. And war leadership in a democracy requires the use of concentrated power far beyond the normal demands of peace.

This fact was understood by the men who framed the United States Constitution, when they provided that in case of war the president should assume command of the nation's fighting forces. It is a direct and personal responsibility. A war-time president is commander-in-chief, with authority over military and naval operations and the raising of fighting forces.

Here is great power over the life of the nation, in the hands of one man. It might be very dangerous in case of an unwise or unscrupulous man. It might conceivably lead to dictatorship over the lives of civilians themselves. That is, except for one thing. The Constitution provides, along with governmental powers for both normal and abnormal situations, the means of controlling those powers.

Thus a seemingly all-powerful war-time president is still subject to an effective form of legislative control. Congress holds the "power of the purse" and thereby can check executive abuse of military power by refusing to appropriate money from the treasury to pay bills. Thus the people through their congress still have control. And possessing such control, they do not worry unduly about theoretic danger of a real "dictatorship."

All Days To Be Treated Alike

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT'S order forbidding payment of double time for work on Saturdays, Sundays or holidays within the regular 40-hour week abolishes several evils which have cropped up in war-work factories.

It removes a handicap to 100 per cent operation of such factories, claimed existing in a few communities, and places all unions on the same basis. Unions that had voluntarily surrendered their claim to double time for such work had complained that they found themselves in unfair competition with unions which still demanded the extra pay.

The order in no way affects payment of double time for the seventh consecutive day of work.

Only those who think more of their own welfare than the common good of their country and that of others, who are fighting for everybody's welfare, will disapprove of the order.

Fighting in the Far East reminds that Gulliver also had trouble with the pygmies when he was greatly outnumbered.

It seems uncertain whether Gen. Rommel lost that battle in Egypt because he was sick, or was sick because he lost.

No Restful Days In Washington

—By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON — "Americans must learn how to chew," says Nicholas Marchitelli, chief chef at Washington's Mayflower hotel.

Nick, as an expert, was discussing wartime's available edibles.

Soft, mushy stuff, which the consumer semi-drinks, doesn't fill him up adequately, Chief Nicholas explains; substantial stuff is what he needs to stick to his ribs.

The housewife, remarks the Mayflower's boss-de-cousine, doesn't realize the difficulties he experiences on his job.

She sets her table with what the grocer and butcher ration to her. Then, if hubby or the kids find any fault, she reminds 'em that they'd better be thankful for anything at all. A hotel cook has to be more diplomatic.

Nick recognizes that his culinary education is superior to the housewife's.

"She's been in the habit of running her kitchen in accordance with budgetary considerations," he comments. "Now she has a war situation to adapt herself to and probably she hasn't thoroughly learned how to do it yet. We professionals have had it rubbed into us to beat four of a kind."

The Washington hotel professional's at one important advantage over the housewife, though.

One Advantage.

The head of a locally resident family, getting home for dinner, is entitled to claim it, and the wife's got to serve it to him in some form or other. A hotel management's in a perfect position to say, "Oh, well, if you don't like our offering, go somewhere else."

Thereupon that guy's at liberty to head for a park bench for the night (if he can find one unoccupied) and he's lucky if he can locate space for himself within reach of a hot-dog stand, to satisfy his appetite.

This makes Washington hotels pretty independent.

I doubt that wartime accommodations for transients are so congested throughout the country. There may be some crowding in spots, where military activity's especially rampant, but the capital's a nightmare.

In order to get a hotel room at all, you've got to put in your application weeks in advance, and then they'll limit you to only a few days—three or four—after which you're chucked out. In effect, it's a system of space rationing. There's an occasional extension, if the applicant's important enough and he has a sufficient excuse, as a matter of international emergency, but they're rare exceptions.

The most central hotel in Washington is the New Willard.

It's manager, Harry Somerville, is quitting. It's too hectic to be endured, he states.

Cities generally enjoy booms.

Folk, already dug in, make money out of 'em.

But this is too much. Life's miserable. You can't find room to buy a pack of cigarets.

A Boom That Lasts.

Washington booms, though, are not so bad.

All other booms, in due season, bust.

I've seen 'em — real estate booms, mining booms, petroleum booms, all sorts.

Ultimately they fizzle out, and things are flatter than a pancake.

But Washington (D. C.) is different. This town never shrinks.

It swells, with the addition of new government departments and subdivisions. It can sprinkle itself around, but it always concentrates here.

The Price They Paid

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

(The following items will not be easy to take. They are quoted verbatim from one of the finest books I have ever read, "AMBASSADORS IN WHITE," by Charles Morrow Wilson. If you are queasy about reading them, remember this—the men who wrought these miracles were queasy too. They shrank from the horror of malaria and yellow fever as much as you might. Yet they went ahead, facing indescribable torture and peril. Had they not gone ahead, you might be dead today from the plague which wrung these voluntary human guinea pigs and which killed many of them.

So this book is more than a dramatic medical discourse. It is American history, bought at a terrible price. It is part of the great debt you owe to those weary, wracked men who penetrated jungle hells that you might be free. You should read it. And the flame of their consecration should lighten even these days and prepare you for any sacrifice.)

HAVE you ever heard an old-time sailor mention "yellow jack?" If so, you have seen horror loom in his eyes. For there was a time when malaria and yellow jack—yellow fever—ravaged America from our Southern states clear through South America. Yellow fever is not a nice illness. If you wish to know what brave men have done to save you from it, you should read at least this paragraph from Charles Wilson's book.

"Usually in yellow fever the patient comes down suddenly. His head and loins ache. His flesh is sensitive. He is drowsy, yet complains of acute belly pains. Then vomiting begins. Gums and mouth bleed. The patient grows thirsty. The whites of his eyes turn yellow. The skin becomes discolored, an orange yellow which changes to pallid green. The first nausea leads to 'black vomit.' The blood in the stomach congeals and becomes like tar . . . The face becomes smeared with clotted blood. As a rule, death comes on the fifth or sixth day. . . ."

These were the conditions faced by the men who attended the building of the Panama Canal, not in one nor in 100, but in tens of thousands of patients. All the Canal Zone, all South America, was ravished by this and other unprintable horrors. And the men who faced them had no clue to their cause. They could only guess. They could only experiment upon the flesh of courageous volunteers from the American army—and upon their bodies. What they endured and what they discovered and what they achieved make one of the noblest histories of our human race.

Here is a record of American courage which will stand as long as our national pride persists. But here is also a record of our national shame. For these men, Carlos Finlay, Walter Reed, Gorgas, Noguchi, and the hundreds who have followed in their trail, were not encouraged, endowed and rewarded as they would be today.

They were thwarted by every possible form of official stupidity. They were forced to work in poverty, in loneliness and despair, sneered at and forgotten.

They worked endlessly, digging even the graves "in the wet, heavy soil, wrapping the corpse in its simple white shroud; filling the unoccupied spaces of the improvised coffin with quicklime; conducting the difficult internment and the filling of the grave and the reading of the burial service by lantern light."

We are "good neighbors" today, we and those haunted men and women who must live within the shadow of the jungle and its peril. But before there were ever kind words or lend-lease allotments, these men had paved the way for that good neighborship by their sweat and blood and tears, by the sacrifice, in many cases, of their own lives.

America lies very close to your heart today. Then read what American really meant to the doomed people of Central and South America. Read what their Americanism cost.

And stop your whimpering, because you have such a little price to pay.

RAF Batters Nazi Transportation As Rail System Shows Weakness

—By FREDERICK C. OECHSNER

THE ROYAL AIR FORCE policy of concentrating on railroad centers and junctions in the reich as well as directly on war production, hits Nazi transportation—an extremely vulnerable point.

RAF raids lately have wisely included among their primary objectives locomotive-building plants at such places as Kassel, Nuremberg, Frankfort, Duisburg, Bielefeld and Cologne.

The importance which locomotive production has been given by the depleted reich is illustrated by the disclosure that such plants now have the same priority claims on iron and copper as factories turning out tanks. That coincides with a current drive for scrap metal to build locomotives, similar to earlier drives for the production of guns.

The conscription of labor in France, just announced, is at least partly intended to supply some of the 200,000 workmen needed under the present railway stock building program. Special inducements are being offered laborers who can keep Germany's rolling stock in condition.

That is not surprising. Fifteen years of neglect of Germany's transportation system have brought it to a very definitely bad point just when the Nazis' ever-expanding activities require it to be in good shape.

The Nazis found that the conquest of new countries yielded them loot in rolling-stock, but that it also brought new headaches in the movement of goods throughout Europe. A train going through Germany today, whether it is carrying food from France, taking trucks to the Russian front, or hauling coal to Italy, looks like a railway League of Nations. The cars are from every point in Europe and are identified in languages ranging from Polish and Czech to Dutch and French.

The Nazis seized 250,000 cars and 3,000 locomotives in France alone; but in Russia they got only relatively few of the 7,000 locomotives there, and they had to change the gauge on those. The looting possibilities in Europe have about been exhausted.

Further problems such as lubrication and roadbed deterioration have brought German railway transportation to the point where it is periodically impossible to move any private freight at all. And private personal travel (quite aside from Hitler's saying that no one should take a vacation in wartime anyhow) is possible only with special permits.

It is difficult to see why the Nazis, usually so farsighted in their war preparations, let their railways go to seed.

Whatever the reasons were, the Nazi leaders are in a jam in the movement of vital war and food supplies.

Draft French for Slave Labor To Swell Production In Reich

—By DE WITT MACKENZIE

THE STARTLING DECREE issued by the Laval government at Vichy, establishing forced labor on French men and women, is held by Free French sources in London to reflect Hitler's determination to add more slave labor to the millions over whom he already is master.

However, without ascribing ulterior motives to the decree in advance of proof, we still can say that the Nazi conqueror has been doing his utmost to swell the ranks of his unwilling chattels with more Frenchmen. The scheme whereby Laval was to provide Germany with 350,000 voluntary workers has failed miserably because, the liberty-loving Frenchmen wouldn't sell their birthrights.

Hitler already has impressed millions of unhappy peoples of the subjugated countries to serve the reich.

Workers in the subjugated countries have been placed under the most severe Nazi military discipline, in order that the last ounce of strength may be squeezed from their undernourished bodies.

Up-to-the-minute figures aren't available, but six months ago the foreign workers actually within the borders of Germany were close to 3,000,000, apart from about 1,600,000 prisoners of war who were working there, and other hundreds of thousands of Russians reported captured.

The labor shortage in the reich has been increasingly acute during the past year. Hitler's problem has been to expand production, and at the same time replace the frightful casualties in his armies.

While Hitler tries to solve this dirty problem, it's reported that he is moving Russian peasants by the thousands to Germany in boxcars. They, of course, will be slaves in exactly the same sense as the men who were chained to the oars of the old Roman galleys.

Watching Trends

—By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON—The Capital in Wartime:

One of the Hong Kong internees who returned recently on the Gripsholm was recounting his misadventures to friends. Summing up, he said:

"Aside from the first few days in our camp we suffered no physical indignities. As a matter of fact (this camp had NO military or political internees), after those first few days, our few guards were mostly Chinese or Indo-Chinese.

"The food, however, was terrible. We almost starved to death. Unless you have experienced that kind of tantalizing hunger, it is almost impossible to believe.

"But there was a funny thing about it. Those who went in there suffering from stomach ulcers, gout, gastritis, and such, came out absolutely cured. And a number of men subject to obesity lost their bay windows and sailed for home admitting that they never felt better in their lives."

A LITTLE over two years ago, when we still were wringing our hands over the sad plight of Poland, I remember writing a column that I thought carried a jarring impact. It was to the effect that the government employes, exclusive of the Army and Navy, had reached the staggering number of 1,000,000 persons.

Now, it's hardly worth a paragraph that civil service officials say that there will be 3,000,000 on Uncle Sam's payroll before the peak of the war effort is passed. (Note, it will only take about 700,000 more to reach that mark).

Uncle Sam, in the role of civilian employe, is still having his greatest problem with turnover. A report, by civil service, of a couple of hundred thousand new placements, represents a net gain of less than 100,000 employes. That means that for every two persons hired on a government job these days, there is one or more who quits for a better job, joins the military forces, or simply hangs a note on the door: "Gone home. I don't like it."

In Washington, the last reason seems to be the most common.

THE Navy is really scoring with its offer of bonuses to civilian employes who invent or discover methods of cutting the red tape and eliminating unnecessary work.

A bureau of medicine and surgery supervisor received a $500 check the other day for discovering a method of eliminating 19 jobs in his department and saving the Navy from filing about a million sheets of reports a year. Paradoxically enough, the fellow did it by introducing a new rubber stamp.

Just a day or two before, the Navy gave $100 bonuses to each of two workers at the navy yard here for improvements in the manufacture of radio receiving devices.

The Navy, so far, is the only department that is offering bonuses for cutting war work, but one of the Washington morning newspapers (The Washington Post) is offering a $100 war bond every month to the federal employe who makes the most helpful suggestion for improving the service.

Goodby, Two-tone Shoes.

Shoe designers no longer will have to sit up all night thinking up new two-tone shoe designs.

Two-tone designs are out, due to the war.

Shoe designs will be limited to a range of seven practical shades, and all shoes will have but one kind of leather.

For those who occasionally attempt to clean their own shoes, this will be a blessing. One who has never tried to clean a pair of brown and white sport oxfords cannot appreciate the exasperation which comes, with beads of perspiration on the brow, from trying to keep the brown polish off the white leather and the white polish off the brown leather.

Simplified shoe design will solve a lot of problems, and may reduce some of the competition, especially in women's footwear lines, where the whole scope of the imagination is permitted to run free.—Toledo Times.

A Farmer's Diary

A Real Farmer

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

I VISITED a stranger at his farm, and although I was on his premises less than an hour, I regard him as a close friend.

That morning, I went with him to feed his stock. In the barn entry, I saw the fine bay team thrust their noses out, and saw him stroke the soft muzzles, as a matter of habit.

"It seems as necessary to fondle old Tim and Jerry as to feed them," he said shyly.

The milk cows in the whitewashed stable, were like boon companions. Whichever one he approached, nudged up as close to him as possible, and one shy heifer with a new calf feeding, thrust her long tongue into the pocket of his wamus.

"She knows I carry seeds and grain in there," he said. "I like animals. They're real, and honest and humble and affectionate. Their dependence on me for food and care and recreation, if you can call it that, gives me more respect for the animal world in which they live. I wonder sometimes how I rate with them . . ."

We went to his garden. It was not a work of art—far from it! It had weeds along the border taller than our heads. He pointed to them, smiling. "They grew so well I thought I'd give 'em a chance to live. I started to hoe 'em out, three different times, and each time I put my hoe on my shoulder and came away. I tasted the sap of one, and it was good. I squeezed the nectar from the flowers of that weed yonder, and it has a sprightly, wild sweet flavor. There's another weed with so much moisture in the leaves a person hates to touch them for fear of bruising. A weed, I reckon, is a plant that's misunderstood . . ."

He took me to his orchard—only 50 trees, half of them peach. They're five years old," he said, caressing idly a tender late growing spray of peach leaves. "They didn't bear this year,—too heavy a crop last summer. But the apples have done well," and led me from one to another, naming each by name, and telling the best qualities of that variety. I left him there, among his trees—and it was purely an accident that, looking back, I happened to see him put his arms about the bole of a Jonathan, with flame-red fruit, and hug it . . .

"Who loves most, lives most," I mused aloud, and envied him.

CARRIER LOSS IN BATTLE OF MIDWAY BARED

craft carrier) was sunk on June 7, 1942, as the result of enemy action during the subsequent to the battle of Midway," the communique said. "The navy department, having good reason to believe that the loss of the Yorktown was not known to the enemy, withheld this announcement pending developments which are vital to the operations which have been in progress in the South Pacific since early August."

It was recalled that the loss of the Lexington was withheld from enemy sources and not announced until after the American victory at Midway. Likewise, loss of the Yorktown was kept a secret until American Marines launched their offensive in the Solomons early in August and seized at least six islands from the enemy.

In a communique on July 14 the navy disclosed that the Yorktown was hit and put out of action but that her aircraft continued to battle the enemy from other U. S. carriers in that area.

As a result of this fact, American forces scored a smashing victory over a Japanese armada of 80 ships, of which more than 23 enemy vessels were sunk and damaged.

The only American losses in the Midway battle were the destroyer Hammann and the Yorktown plus an undisclosed number of U. S. planes.

Referring to the Midway action of June 4 when U. S. forces laid a disastrous trap for the Japanese the navy's communique said:

"She (the Yorktown) was seriously damaged and heavily listed as the result of these attacks, and the crew was forced to abandon ship in view of the imminent danger of her capsizing. Tugs and other salvage vessels were sent to her assistance. A salvage party was placed aboard and she was taken in tow. Progress was slow, but it appeared that she might be saved."

As a result of this, most of the Yorktown's personnel and aircraft were saved, including Capt. Elliott Buckmaster, of Columbus, O., commander of the carrier. Buckmaster is a native of Brooklyn, N. Y.

Commander Arnold Ellsworth True, of Corinth, Ky., commander of the Hammann, also was saved.

By the morning of June 6 the salvage party had been able to reduce the list on the Yorktown and "the prospects of saving the ship appeared brighter."

"The U. S. S. Hammann (destroyer) was placed alongside to assist," the communique continued. "Shortly after noon on June 6 an enemy submarine scored two torpedo hits amidships on the Yorktown and two torpedo hits on the Hammann alongside. The Hammann sank shortly thereafter, and the condition of the Yorktown became critical. The enemy submarine was attacked by destroyers throughout the day. Results of these attacks indicated that the submarine was certainly damaged and possibly sunk.

It was evident then that the bombed and torpedoed Yorktown could not be saved.

"During the early morning of June 7, the Yorktown capsized and sank as the result of the cumulative damage from aircraft bombs and torpedoes on the 4th, and submarine torpedoes on the 6th."

The Yorktown's aircraft, plus other naval and army planes, more than revenged the gallant carrier, however.

During the Midway battle the Japanese losses were four aircraft carriers sunk; three battleships damaged; two heavy cruisers destroyed and three damaged; one light cruiser damaged; three destroyers sunk and at least three damaged, and one transport sunk and three damaged, for a total of more than 23.

In addition, the Nipponese lost at least 275 planes plus an estimated 4,800 personnel against the U. S. loss of two warships and 307 officers and enlisted men.

To date, the United States Army, Navy and Marine forces have sunk or damaged at least 183 Japanese warships, while American naval ship losses in the Pacific have been estimated at 32 ships sunk and 21 lost or damaged for a total of 53 in the Pacific.

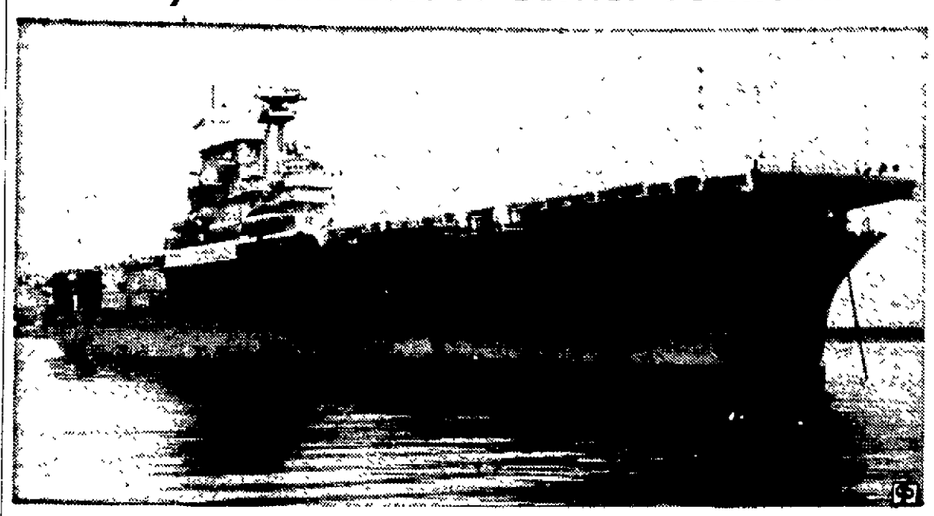
Navy Reveals Loss of Carrier Yorktown



The Navy today revealed the sinking of the aircraft carrier Yorwtown three days after she was first attacked by the Japanese on June 6 during the battle of Midway. The 19,000-ton craft went down with the destroyer Hamman, which was along side, while being towed to port after it had been put out of action by bomb and torpedo hits.

FEAR WRITER IN AXIS HANDS

Cairo Reports Indicate AP Correspondent, Allen, Held By Enemy.

July, 1938, after a period on the cable and Latin-American desks in the New York headquarters of the A. P.

His assignment was to help cover the Spanish civil war, but the crisis in Czechoslovakia deflected him to Prague. He later went to Rome and remained there until he was assigned to Alexandria Egypt, where his sea-faring career began.

Admiral Sir Andrew Browne Cunningham, now a member of the Allied war council and former commander of the British fleet in the Mediterranean, told newspapermen in Washington in praise of Allen's initiative:

"Why, it got so I hardly liked Allen to go to sea at all. He was a stormy petrel—always got into trouble wherever he was — but he always came through. He had an explanation for it, saying cautiously that 'what my folks want is a live story, not a dead reporter.'"

These were only the highlights of a sea-roving career with the British fleet, always in the close presence of danger. He has ridden tiny craft on patrol and many times has been carried within sight of enemy shores by British task forces pouring shells into enemy strongholds in Europe and Africa.

He had to break a British admiralty tradition to do it.

In the summer of 1940, he prevailed on British officers with nine weeks of persusive pleading to let him go with the Mediterranean fleet and report its operations. It had never been done before.

When the British decided to smash at the Italian grip on the Dodecanese, Allen was permitted to go along and he gave the world its first description of the British assault on those important Aegean sea islands off the southeast coast of Greece.

Later came reports that the British cruiser Ajax had sunk three Italian warships off the coast of Sicily. Within a day or so came Allen's eye-witness story of that triumph over the Italian fleet.

His next assignment was, perhaps his most daring. He joined a British squadron which sailed, knowingly, into a possible trap when it set out to invade the virtually land-locked Adriatic to attack Valona, the Italian base on the Albanian coast.

Allen watched the British guns hammer that port into uselessness as a base for Italian troops and supplies in the campaign against Greece—and sent out the first eye-witness story of that attack also.

He sent vivid stories of the pounding of Bardia, when the Italians were besieged in that Libyan port, from aboard the slow, broad-beamed monitor "Terror" which sailed past enemy land batteries and poured 600 tons of TNT shells ashore.

Allen was under his heaviest fire when 40 to 50 Nazi planes flung torpedoes at the sides of the Illustrious and 100,000 pounds of high explosive bombs at her flight deck.

His most recent experience under Nazi air attack was when a British destroyer survived a nine-hour attack by 50 Stukas off the Egyptian coast last month. He was cut and bruised himself.

Earlier in August he was the only casualty in a British naval squadron which shelled the island of Rhodes. He fell down a hatchway on the return voyage.

Search For War Reporter Abandoned

GEN. MacARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, Australia —(AP)— A co-worker of Vern Haugland, 34-year-old Associated Press war correspondent who bailed out of a faltering U. S. bomber over south central New Guinea Aug. 7, said today organized searches had been abandoned, but there was still some hope for the safety of both Haugland and the plane's missing navigator.

Edward Widdis, Associated Press photographer, said he accompanied one party which made a search by boat up a New Guinea river. He said the natives of the area were generally friendly and had rescued many white men lost for months in the mountain jungles.

The bomber's fuel supply was exhausted after it rode out a severe storm. Lieut. Duncan Seffern, the pilot, and two other members of the crew reached the Allied base at Port Moresby after long tramps through the jungles.

(By Associated Press)

CLEVELAND—The government expected to call for testimony late today the second of six young women held as material witnesses in the trial of four men and a woman charged with operating a white slave ring.

The six young women, the prosecution claims, were transported by the ring to various cities in five states for immoral purposes.

Vivian Clark, 25-year-old blond prostitute called as the first material witness, testified in federal court yesterday that Carl T. (Ted) Bruell, 36, of Canton, had threatened to kill her after she attended a movie with another man. Bruell and his brother Frank, 29, are among the five defendants.

Describing "a ride" with the brothers, Miss Clark related that Carl "said he was going to kill me and bury my body in lime" after cutting identification marks from her clothing. She was spared by telling the name of her movie companion, she added.

On another occasion, Miss Clark said, Carl threatened to carve his initials in her face if she ever tried to leave him. Another time, she continued, Carl made her "strip off all my clothes before a lot of people" in a Canton apartment and threatened to burn her with lighter fluid. The prostitute also told of attending a Cleveland party last New Year's eve at which the guests included a Canton public official and the brother of another.

Telling earlier of agreeing to go to "work" for the Bruell brothers, she declared all her brothel earnings were turned over to them. She said these amounted to $100 a day in Miami, Fla., $200 a week in Lorain and Sandusky and $100 to $135 a week in Canton.

QUININE FOUND

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal.—(U.P.)—The quinine shortage has been lightened by the discovery here of a stock of 82,700 quinine pills which had been sent to San Francisco at the time of the 1906 earthquake and fire in the event epidemics might break out.

The quinine was found still intact among the drug supplies of the Laguna Honda home, a charitable institution for old people.

CHERRY CROP LARGEST EVER

SAN JOSE, Cal. —(U.P.)— There can be two cherries in every cocktail this year, the Santa Clara Valley Fruit exchange has announced. The cherry crop, larger than ever, is valued at $2,000,000, eastern states taking half of it.

COUNCIL WEIGHS WARTIME BILLS AT BUCYRUS

Provides For Replacements In Police Department, Studies Pay Boosts.

BUCYPUS—Bucyrus city council considered two pieces of "war" legislation at its meeting, Tuesday night.

Because several regular members of the police department have either been called in the armed services or are expecting to be called, legislation which will provide for the pay and privileges for extra patrolmen who will serve while regular officers are on military leave, was adopted. The legislation adopted will provide new patrolmen with the same salary and privileges as officers are given during their first year of service.

Because of increased living costs and to place employes of the sewage disposal plant on an equal par with other city employes, attendants at the plant petitioned council for a wage increase. Attendants at the disposal plant receive less pay than employes in any other department, the petitioners pointed out in making their requests, which was referred to the finance committee for consideration.

Necessary legislation preliminary to entering into a contract for assuming a share in the widening and resurfacing program for Mansfield street from the underpass to the West Mansfield street bridge, was adopted by council and ordered forwarded to the Ohio highway department. The city's share in the improvement, according to the legislation passed, is not to exceed $8,000.

Upon recommendation of the Citizens park committee, through Councilman Carl Light, council voted to retain a caretaker and watchman at Aumiller park through October.

Because his present employment requires his presence in Cleveland, Jim Kehrer, one of the two council members of the police pension board submitted his resignation as a member of the board and Councilman Ed Carter was named by Chairman A. J. Flickinger as his successor.

Third Physician Leaves Bucyrus Today for Army

BUCYRUS—One Bucyrus doctor left for military service today and another will leave Sept. 26, bringing the total number of local doctors in the service to four.

Dr. S. J. Campbell will report at Wellston, Ga., with the army air corps. He holds a first lieutenant's commission.

Dr. R. L. Marquart, Bucyrus dentist, will close his office Saturday before leaving for Fort Hayes for a period of basic training before being assigned. He has also been granted a first lieutenant's commission in the army air force.

Other Bucyrus physicians in the service are Dr. R. J. Caton, a lieutenant colonel in the army medical corps, now overseas, and Dr. R. L. Solt, a lieutenant commander in the navy, stationed at Richmond, Va.

URGE REMOVAL OF CRESTLINE LEGION CANNON FOR WAR SCRAP

CRESTLINE—Commander Clyde Flockencier presided at the meeting of McWhirter Post, American Legion, Monday evening. Prompt removal of the cannon which stands on the Legion home lawn was urged. The cannon had previously been offered to the local war scrap committee.

Announcement was made of the supper to be served to Legion and Legion club members on Wednesday, Sept. 16, at the club.

Arrangements were made for the part the post was to have in the dedication of the Service flag of the Pennsylvania Railway company Tuesday afternoon.

The election of officers of the post will be held at their next meeting, Sept. 28.

A meeting of the county council was held at the close of the local meeting with Commander George Dustman of Bucyrus presiding.

McWhirter post will have charge of military services for Thomas Fisher, 51, who died Monday at 10:15 a. m., at the home of his nephew, Paul Fisher, 318 Pearl street, where he and his daughter, Marjorie, resided.

The funeral service will be held at St. Joseph's Catholic church at 9 a. m. with Rev. F. A. Slattery in charge. Burial will be made in St. Joseph's cemetery.

FIRM TO OPEN ASHLAND OFFICE

Ohio Road Improvement Company Buys Land, Buildings For Headquarters.

ASHLAND—Announcement was made here yesterday that Northern Ohio headquarters of the Ohio Road Improvement company will be established in Ashland. The announcement was made by H. B. Fenton of Lakewood, one of the partners in the company, who also said the company has purchased five and one-half acres of land in northeast Ashland for its headquarters here.

The company has plants at Kenton, Marion, Sandusky, Lodi, Canton, Columbus and Rockburne in Ohio and Baltimore, Md., and Savannah, Ga. Headquarters of the company are in Columbus. The plant here will be headquarters for equipment and for overhauling machinery.

Fenton said the company now holds government contracts principally. The company recently completed paving the runways at the new Lockburne bomber airport near Columbus.

Land for the company's new headquarters here was purchased from the Carroll Oil company of Ashland and Leopold Brothers of Cleveland.

Two buildings on the oil company land will be retained and three others moved in, and other buildings may be erected later, Fenton said. Some workers of the company are expected to move here.

THANKS WILLARD GARDEN CLUB FOR PROJECT WITH $100 CHECK

WILLARD—A letter from C. W. Galloway vice president of the Baltimore and Ohio railway was read by Mrs. John E. Wise president of the Willard Garden club at the meeting at the home of Mrs. L. L. Lewis, Monday evening.

He expressed appreciation for the work the club is doing in beautifying Woodland avenue along the railroad property and enclosed a personal check for $100 toward continuing the work.

Mrs. Wise named the following committee to nominate officers who will be elected at the next meeting: Mrs. J. C. Gibson, Mrs. H. F. Murray and Mrs. C. H. Nixon.

The program for the evening was presented by Misses Norma Lee and Sally Boyle, Mrs. J. M. Elder, Mrs. W. M. Harwood and Mrs. Murray.

STUDY PROGRAM

Schools Considering Sale of Surplus Milk at Low Rate.

BUCYRUS — The nation-wide "penny milk" program, a government inaugurated project to provide an outlet for surplus milk, is being studied for adoption in Crawford county rural and city schools, R. L. Hertzer, Crawford county agent for the agricultural marketing administration, sponsors of the project, announced today.

The program provides for sale of surplus milk to pupils by the schools at one cent per half pint.

A lay committee from Crestline has already requested that a survey be made to determine the advisability of instigating the program in the schools there and other schools, both in the rural and urban districts of the county, are considering the program, Hertzer said.

PLANS SIGNS

Galion Council Favors Ban of Turns at Square.

GALION — Recommendations were heard for the alleviation of traffic problems on the Galion square at the Tuesday evening meeting of the Galion city council. Plans were discussed and referred to committees for the erection of "no turn" signs to be placed on the square during the busy hours.

Because of the traffic light arrangement on the square it is felt that turns to the right or left tie up traffic during the heavy traffic hours.

An ordinance was also passed authorizing the transfer of general funds to specific funds to meet current expenses for the fiscal year ending Dec. 31, 1942.

STARS RAISE $76,000 AT 5 BOND RALLIES

15,000 See Film Notables In Tour of City and at JAC Victory Luncheon.

afternoon also added $1,500 to the grand total.

Rain cut short the selling of bonds at the downtown rally as a shower came up just after the stars had finished their speaking program About $5 000 in bonds was sold at the park

An auction of flowers, earrings and a cigaret case belonging to the stars netted $18,200 during the afternoon

One luncheon guest invested $10,000 in bonds and received Astaire's cigaret case as a memento. Miss Massey's gold earrings brought $1,000 from another bidder All bids represented the amounts to which persons pledged themselves to buy war bonds. Harry S. Black, vice president of the Ohio Brass company, received the cigaret case, and Mrs. J. H. Ashbaugh, the earrings.

The auction started with Miss Massey's bouquet of roses that brought $7,200 after H J Schmitz manager of the Mansfield Cement Products company bought the first rose for $2 000 and several other flowers were sold singly

Whisked from one rally to another under police and state highway patrol escort the stars made their first industrial appeal at the Westinghouse plant Here at least 4 000 workers thrilled to Miss Massey's singing of "The Star Spangled Banner" and her eloquent appeal to "support the government and don t let our boys down"

Attired in a cream-colored suit tinged with yellow and with a soft green wool scarf wound in a fetching turban around her head, the sun-tanned star appeared as glamorous in real life as she does on the screen.

Mrs Fred Astaire introduced by her husband as 'not so funny as Hugh Herbert but awfully cute" was attractive in black with a pert little red hat

Hugh Herbert stayed "in character" on all his appearances He did just what the audience wanted him to do He told a couple of funny stories punctuated with the famous Woo Woo"

Fred Astaire confined himself to a brief appeal to 'make bond-buying a steady habit But you don t need a guy like me to tell you that" he added Astaire's dancing feet made a couple of quick turns on the narrow platforms It made the fans wish he had enough space in which to really perform

At each of the rallies, workers were urged to "give our armed service men the support they need," by Fred Hout, chairman of the special September bond committee "You are living evidence that this job can be done," Hout told the workers adding "only by entire participation can we hope to achieve our quota" In this campaign, Hout continued "we are not commanded to give, we are asked to lend"

The same appeals presented at the Westinghouse were carried to the Mansfield Tire and Rubber company and the Ohio Brass company Approximately 1 000 persons attended the rally at each of these plants Employes of other plants in the vicinity attended

J Gilbert Baird acted as master of ceremonies throughout the afternoon In addition to Baird, the party making the tour with the stars included Paul Eliot chairman of the Richland county bond-selling committee James Eberly victory luncheon chairman, and Hout

At the Ohio Brass company rally Frank Dekrell director of Local 77 UERW band that played for the industrial rallies and Miss Massey s rendition of the national anthem, was called to the platform

Fellow-countryman of Miss Massey, a Hungarian by birth, Dekrell received the compliments of the star. "The band plays beautifully," said Miss Massey in her native tongue.

Tribute to Miss Massey was paid by the Hungarian Social and Political society of Mansfield at the rally held in Central park In behalf of the group, Miss Massey was presented with a purple orchid by Miss Betty Jona

It was also at the Ohio Brass rally that the $10,000 bidder for Astaires cigaret case, Harry S Black, was announced

Another interesting incident that furnished fun for the audience took place there It was announced that Traffic Commissioner Frend Boals had come to Miss Massey s rescue when the star had snagged her hose at the previous rally Boals made his appearance on the platform with a new pair of hose for the star who promptly rewarded him with a kiss.

Greetings from the State of Ohio were brought to the visiting stars by Don H Ebright, state treasurer, who appeared at the public rally in the absence of Gov John W Bricker Mayor William J Locke extended a welcome in behalf of the city

The Mansfield Senior high school band gave color to the downtown rally where a contingent of 50 men from the 753rd Engineers' battalion from Bucyrus formed a cordon around the section used by the stars.

Scenes as Hollywood Stars Visit Mansfield to Boost September Campaign for Sale of War Bonds

Stars were over Mansfield yesterday as three Hollywood favorites, Ilona Massey, Fred Astaire, and Hugh Herbert boosted the September war bond sale by $76,000 in appearances in the city's industrial section at a victory luncheon and a public rally in Central park At least 15,000 Mansfielders saw and heard the movie trio as they made speeches in behalf of bond sales and donated several of their own personal trinkets for auction to the highest bidder—all bids to be converted into war bonds The picture top left shows Ilona Massey before the microphone as she sang 'The Star Spangled Banner' at the Mansfield Tire and Rubber company Pictured from left to right are J Gilbert Baird, master of ceremonies; Miss Massey, Mrs Fred Astaire, Clifford Warner, and Fred Astaire Top center shows the sea of faces that surrounded the stars at the Westinghouse plant Fred Astaire is pictured top right as he urged Westinghouse employes to "make bond-buying a steady habit" Miss Massey is shown seated back of Astaire and to the left is Hugh Herbert Bottom right shows a close-up of Miss Massey, Mrs Fred Astaire and her dancer-husband as they appeared at the Ohio Brass company To the right is Harry S Black, vice president of the company, who bid $10 000 in bonds for Astaire's cigaret case

The unit was in command of Capt. George E. Garrett.

Results of yesterday's special activity were satisfying to the committee, Eliot and Hout said Hout credited industries participating in the 10 per cent deduction plan with a $57 000 increase since the first of the month

Brenda Lou Peterson, little Crestline resident residing at 602 South Thoman street, purchased the first bond at the park. A four and one-half year old Mansfield youngster Marlene Gray, daughter of Mr and Mrs R B Gray, 481 Forest avenue, received the orchid war stamp corsage Miss Massey had been wearing The star handed it to the child as she went to her car The corsage represented $4 in war stamps Mrs. Astaire handed her victory corsage to little Julie Kozma, 291 Reed street

Donors of equipment for the activity included Bob Walsh who furnished and manned the loud-speaking apparatus throughout the drive

CHAPTER XXVI

By the next morning Amy had put her thoughts in order—if there could be any order to all this misunderstanding and misery.

She realized that whatever Marcia had told Paul she had not done it in malice. There was no malice in Marcia. Marcia would merely consider that she was telling her fiance something about two persons who were almost members of their family circle. She would consider that she had to tell him, perhaps that she ought to. And certainly Marcia believed what she had said.

Amy could imagine just how Marcia must have written. She would be all sympathy and understanding. She would write feelingly of her admiration for Guy and Amy. She would be sincere and serious about it all. That would make it so much more plausible than gossip. She must have gone into detail too. But she must have colored her story without meaning to. That was why Paul had believed.

But Paul hadn't believed altogether. He had had enough doubt to come to Cincinnati finally to find out. But why hadn't he given her a chance to explain there in the theater? That was partly her own fault, she told herself. She had flared up at him so quickly. If only he hadn't surprised her just when she was so angry and upset over Mrs. Actling's insinuations!

If—if—if! All this retrospection wasn't getting her anywhere. Except to show her how childish they had both been. Undoubtedly Paul would realize that too. He would come to see her sometime during the day.

She waited in her room all morning in dizzy anticipation. By afternoon the anticipation had given away to a dull apathy. She went downtown on some errands, but she telephoned from there and asked, "Did anyone call for me?" No, no one had called for her. No one had called when she got back either.

While they were all at supper, Amy and the Eckerts and Guy and Nurse Bolton and Daphne in her wheeled chair, the door-bell rang. Her heart jumped into her throat. It seemed she could hardly breathe during the long time it took Mama Eckert to walk to the front door. It seemed she couldn't go on a second longer pretending she wasn't interested.

Then the door opened and there was no longer any need of pretending. For Marcia came in alone, a glorified Marcia who told them, "I've been entertaining company! Paul was here last night."

"Why didn't he come out?" Mama Eckert asked.

"He did. He said he came out about 8 o'clock and that you were all gone. Miss Bolton told him you'd gone to the symphony. He had so little time so he came to see me. You see, he came through with another man driving an army truck. I don't understand it all. But anyway they were here just two hours. But listen, everybody! He's bought that mountain cabin. You've heard him speak of it haven't you, Amy?"

Amy nodded.

"He paid only eight hundred dollars for it. You know he had eight thousand dollars from the sale of the picture to Mrs. Ainslee. But he used most of it to pay a debt."

She flushed, changed the subject. "He was cross and tired like a child. But I didn't care. I was so glad to have him even for an hour."

Amy kept on eating—sticking her fork into morsels of food, putting them in her mouth like a robot, her eyes lowered.

But when she glanced up at last Guy was looking at her and his look was one of concern and understanding. Then he began to talk to Marcia and Amy knew he was doing it to turn attention from her.

When Marcia had left and the Eckerts had gone to bed, Amy slipped out to the kitchen to get the nightly glass of milk the doctor had prescribed. Guy was there.

He got the milk bottle from the refrigerator and poured some in her glass and handed it to her as he might have served Daphne. Then he poured one for himself.

He didn't look at her curiously. He didn't ask questions. But she felt he was there because he knew just how she must be feeling, and he wanted to give her whatever support he could. She was very grateful.

"Guy, you're a Rock of Gibraltar," she told him.

"I'm glad," he said simply.

Then, somehow, she was telling him how she and Paul had quarreled in the theater, but she found she couldn't tell him why and that left the story hanging in mid air.

Guy asked her though, his steady grey eyes on her, "Was it something about me?"

"Yes," she said frankly.

"But they ought to know you weren't concerned with me. They might have guessed that I was in love with you." He smiled—a twisted smile. "I hadn't meant to tell you. That is, not just now. I'd hoped— Oh, well, all this has brought it out."

"I didn't know," she began. "That is—not until—"

"Until the other night? I'm sorry if you found out then. I'm sorry if my love has hurt you."

"But it hasn't," she hastened to say, "It's an honor to be loved by you. You're the best, the finest, the—"

"But you don't love me," he finished gently.

"I—you're the sort of man I would have loved if—if I hadn't met Paul. You're the sort I'd always thought I'd love."

"And you're the sort I'd have loved if I hadn't met Frani," he said. "But I don't love Frani. I can't feel any regret that she's gone. That's the test, I suppose . . . But you do love Paul?"

"I—I don't know. Just now I hate him!"

"You have to love a man a great deal in order to hate him," he told her. "It's not fair though to ask you these questions now. I don't know that it'll ever be fair to ask you. I don't like a love that has to hide in corners. I don't mean, of course, that love itself is ever a thing to be ashamed of. It's what you do with love that counts."

"I never thought until tonight that anyone would impute sneaky motives to me," she said. "That Mrs. Actling makes me crawl."

"It never occurred to me either," he said.

Then she told him that she wanted to leave his house—as soon as possible. "Not because of people like Mrs. Actling . . . Well, yes, partly because of them. But more because . . . we couldn't go on now."

"No," he agreed. "We couldn't go on. If I could find some sort of really good job for you—"

"You couldn't," she said quickly. "I want to do it myself. I want to separate myself from everything that's happened these past months. I want to get off and think and set myself straight."

"If you'll think of me—" he began. "No, I won't ask that. Darn it! I sound as if I were noble! I'm not. Of course I don't want you to forget me. And I do ask this much, Amy. Promise me you won't leave Cincinnati without letting me know."

She promised and was amazed to discover how forlorn she felt at the thought of being away from him.

She was surprised too the next day to find that when she looked at Daphne she did not see the black curls and the funny furious little scowl that reminded her of Paul and Frani. She saw instead the steady, dark grey eyes that belonged to Guy's child.

Yes, it was time to leave that house. But the leaving was not as simple as she had thought it would be. The city was no more eager for her or her talents than it had been five months earlier.

Then help came from the quarter where she had least expected it.

When she came in late in the afternoon after her second day of making the rounds of stores and offices she found Dr. Ames in the living-room showing Guy and Marcia a pair of small crutches. Amy would have gone upstairs immediately. She didn't want to talk to either Marcia or Dr. Ames. But Daphne called from her bed in the adjoining room.

"Tudor! Tudor. Don't go upstairs. In a minute I'm going to walk."

"Oh! Then I must be here!" Amy said. "I'll just hurry upstairs and take off my things and wash my face and pin my ears back. I'll be right down."

But she did not go upstairs immediately for just as she was about to close the stairway door behind her she caught a fragment of something Dr. Ames was saying.

"The position requires someone who speaks several languages, a person who has understanding, a gift for play and for making people feel comfortable."

Then she heard Marcia say, "I'd like to try it myself."

Dr. Ames said, "No. You wouldn't do. You couldn't live at the house. And you couldn't give all your time to it. Of course the salary isn't much, but they ought to be able to find someone."

A position? A salary? Amy stood poised on the bottom step. They weren't talking to her. There was a time when she wouldn't have thought of interrupting. But after two days of waiting in offices and forcing herself past secretaries she realized the need of aggression. She went back and faced them. Guy had gone into Daphne's room. There were only Dr. Ames and Marcia.

"I couldn't help overhearing you," Amy said. "You spoke of a position for a person who speaks several languages. I thought it might interest me." She knew she sounded stiff. She couldn't help it with Dr. Ames looking off over her head as though she were part of the furniture.

THEATERS

Breezy Comedy.

"Are Husbands Necessary?" opening today at the Ohio is a gay and lively comedy based on the best-selling novel, "Mr. and Mrs. Cugat," by Isabel Scott Rorick. Ray Milland and Betty Field appear as a young married couple addicted to "whiffling," or telling white lies. Milland has the role of a banker and the cast includes Patricia Morrison as a lady on the prowl, Eugene Pallette and Leif Erickson and Patricia Morrison as a lady on the prowl.

New Star Featured.

"Dr. Broadway," starring MacDonald Carey and Jean Phillips is the attraction at the Madison. Carey, leading man to Gertrude Lawrence on Broadway, recently appeared here in "Take a Letter Darling," with Fred MacMurray and Rosalind Russell. "Spy Ship," the second film, has Craig Stevens, Irene Manning and Michael Ames.

Family Drama.

Teaming Kay Francis and Walter Huston the Ritz attraction, "Always In My Heart," is the first picture made in Hollywood by Mansfield's movie starlet, Patty Hale. Patty plays the mischievous granddaughter of the housekeeper to Kay Francis with a penchant for eavesdropping. The story concerns a young mother's romance after she had been divorced from her first husband because he had to go to jail and the re-appearance of the latter. Huston plays the husband and Sidney Blackmer the other man. Milton Berle in "Whispering Ghosts," is the co-attraction.

Western Saga.

"Sunset on the Sage," starring Roy Rogers, opens Thursday at the Park. The picture deals with the efforts of Rogers and his Pal, "Gabby" Hayes to bring justice to an oppressed western county and it present several spritely tunes by Sons of the Pioneers. Lynne Carver is the leading lady. "Rubber Racketeers," the second feature, deals with a timely subject and presents Ricardo Cortez, a racketeer who sees possibilities of illegitimate profits in the stealing and selling of new tires.

BROADWAY

—By Dorothy Kilgallen

Miss Midnight's Notebook.

Manhattan Glitter: Hedy LaMarr giving the Rambow room a thrill . . . Leonora Corbett, the blithe spirit, wafting into the Stork Club in good company—half a dozen youngsters from the RAF . . . Renee DeMarco wearing the latest thing in gloves—white suede, with a black silhouette of the boy friend on the gauntlett . . . Patti, Maxene and LaVerne Andrews picking up a Lindy's check for their three guests—a soldier, a sailor and a marine . . . Grace Moore and Cole Porter making dialogue at the 1-2-3 . . . Brig. Gen. Jimmy Doolittle showing the Martini-queens how to use highball stirrers as chopsticks . . . Alexander Woollcott and Bing Crosby creating a buzz in the Algonquin lobby. Did you know that Local 802's fond nickname for Bing is "The Groaner?"

Kilgallen

This Was the Week in Which: Ralph Bellamy, who never gets the girl in the movies, was mobbed by femmes both at the Diamond Horseshoe and the Hurricane . . . Most New Yorkers slept or danced through the surprise early a. m. air raid signal . . . Herbert Hoover, Hedy LaMarr and Dorothy Lamour arrived in town, gladdening the hearts of Republicans and beauty-lovers, respectively . . . William Saroyan became a leading candidate for the job of drama critic on a morning newspaper, and the wags immediately demanded to know who'd get the job of decoding his reviews . . . Meyer Davis sent out a call for girl musicians, because so many boy musicians have been drafted . . . Mickey Rooney admitted that "Andy Hardy Takes a Wife" wasn't his most successful role.

A Stone's Throw From Broadway: Oona O'Neill won $100 at the Stork Club the other night and sprinted up the stairs to the powder room to give $10 of it to the maid . . . Walter O'Keefe, who moved into the Berkshire Hotel because he loved the Barberry Room there, had to move out again because he was spending all his time in the Barberry and wasn't getting any gag-writing done. Now he's at the Ritz Towers, and work seems to be moving along at a satisfactory pace . . . Georgie Jessel was boastfully flashing a check for $1.62 around the bistros the other evening. His semi-annual royalties on "My Mother's Eyes" . . . Bob Evans, the comedian, is the only ventriloquist I ever say who actually takes his dummy around to the night clubs with him. Bob's wooden partner is a snippy little fellow named Jerry O'Leary, who doesn't drink nor smoke.

Fables From the Forties: David Lichine, the ballet dancer, who is doing the chorography for George Abbott's new musical, "Beat the Band," isn't very "hep" to the roster of American dancers, and his innocence on this score has caused quite a bit of merriment among chorus kids in the show.

The other day they brought a lean, lanky youth to the theater and asked Lichine to give him an audition. A confirmed yes man to struggling talent, Lichine said yes and sat in the orchestra with the "Beat the Band" steppers to watch the newcomer stumble through a routine that was so bad it was hilarious. The kids laughed every time the auditioner's legs went askew, and Lichine was indignant.

When the dance was finished he took the awkward young man aside and gave him a few words of fatherly advice.

"If I were you," he said, "I'd go home and study those steps some more. With practise, I'm sure you'll be good enough for a Broadway show."

P. S.—No one in the cast has yet had the nerve to tell Lichine that the awkward young man was Hal LeRoy, assisting them in a good-natured gag.

* * *

All Around The Town: Averell Harriman, back from Russia, relaxing in the gilded saloons . . . Abbott and Costello, the funnymen, taking Miriam LaVelle for a tour of the night spots—and getting her home by midnight, on mama's orders . . . Tallulah Bankhead at LaRuban Bleu, applauding her ex-leading man, Fred Keating . . . Una Merkel, looking so much prettier than her film images . . . Tom Dewey signing his autograph at the Olney Inn, just like a movie fella . . . Walter Abel, doing the rumba with a neat brunette package . . . And if you think glamor girls haven't been affected by the various shortages you should drop backstage to the chorus girls' dressing room at Leon and Eddie's, any night, and watch the little darlings play gin rummy—for hair pins and bobby pins!

VOTES PILE UP IN PRIMARIES OF SIX STATES

Incumbent Unseated By Former Mississippi Senator; Lodge Takes Lead.

(By International News Service)

Former U. S. Senator James O. Eastland today unseated Sen. Wall Doxey in the Mississippi Democratic runoff, tantamount to election, as latest returns rolled in from primaries in five other states—Massachusetts, Michigan, New Jersey, New Hampshire and Wisconsin.

Latest returns showed:

Massachusetts—U. S. Senator Henry Cabot Lodge (R.) was renominated by a wide margin over Courtenay Crocker. Rep. Joseph E. Casey apparently won the Democratic senatorial nomination.

Michigan—Circuit Judge Homer Ferguson, of Detroit, piled up an increasing lead for the Republican U. S. Senatorial nomination over the Rev. Gerald L. K. Smith, former Huey P. Long lieutenant. Rep. Clare Hoffman, New Deal foe, was leading his nearest opponent 2-1 for Republican nomination to the house. Reps. W. Shafer and Barciel Jonkman, held smaller leads.

New Jersey — Albert Hawkes was trailing Gil Robb Wilson in a neck-and-neck race for the right to oppose Sen. Smathers (D.) in the November elections.

New Hampshire—Former Republican Gov. Francis P. Murphy was nominated by a two to one vote for the Democratic senate seat over Alvin A. Lucier. U. S. Sen. Styles Bridges far out-distanced Arthur J. Gruenler for the Republican nomination. Rep. Arthur A. Jenks was leading in the first district and Rep. Foster Stearns was ahead in the second district Republican primaries.

Wisconsin—Gov. Julius P. Heil received virtually a landslide endorsement for the Republican nomination for a third term. Four incumbent congressmen were holding their leads, Reps Stevenson (R.), Thill (R.), Murray (R.), and Gehrmann (D.). Six incumbents were unopposed for nomination.

Up and Down THE STREET

The visit to this country of the international head of the Salvation Army, General George Carpenter, i creating no end of speculation in the local corps as to the representation Mansfield will have at a division meeting to be held by the Salvation Army of 13 states in New York city in October. Adjt. Paul Hoffman said that this section would send a delegation to "sit in" on the conference held for the purpose of discussing wartime problems. General Carpenter recently arrived in this country by plane from London.

Gazing at the stars yesterday was slightly expensive to W. C. McCracken, 345 High street, he told police. While he stood in a crowd near the Mansfield-Leland hotel to get a glimpse of Ilona Massey, Fred Astaire and Hugh Herbert, film notables here in connection with the war bond campaign, his billfold was taken from hip pocket. McCracken reported to police that important cards and papers were taken, along with a small amount of cash.

Scouting activities may vary but there's one recreational feature that is booked for practically every troop this autumn it's a hike by either foot or bicycle. Mrs. M. Lee Hundley's troop 17 will lead off the series with a hike Saturday to the S. Glenn Vinson farm with the hostess badge group in charge. Brownie Pack 22, in charge of Mrs. Charles Orr and Mrs. R. A. Rowlands, have a walking hike scheduled later, while troop 3, led by Mrs. M. W. Stretch, will make a trek by bicycle.

FARM BUREAU CHIEF ASKS FOR 'PARITY'

Says Pegging of Agriculture Income Futile Without Control of Earnings.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—President Edward A. O'Neal of the American Farm Bureau federation today declared that all efforts to combat inflation will be "futile" unless wages are stabilized with farm prices and proposed that farm price ceilings be set at parity, plus an amount to meet agriculture wage increases.

In a statement prepared for presentation before the senate banking committee which continued hearings today on President Roosevelt's anti-inflation program, O'Neal said that "effective price control is possible only when wages, which constitute the largest single factor in the cost of production of industrial goods, are brought under control."

Declaring that "it is far more important : control wages than it is to control farm prices," O'Neal said that to stabilize farm prices and then wages would be like putting "the cart before the horse," because "parity is a relative yardstick—parity itself rises with rising costs."

"Parity is like a can tied to a dog's tail," he said. "You can tie it so that the can is just two feet behind the dog, but if the dog climbs a hill, then the can will go up too, even though you keep it always two feet behind the dog.

"If we tie up the dog, neither the dog nor the can will climb any higher If wages can be stabilized effectively, then it will be an easy matter to stabilize farm prices."

O'Neal said that the primary objective should be to get a formula which will assure abundant production—stabilizing prices at levels which will permit farmers to compete with other employers in securing labor. The most serious obstacle to continued high production of farm commodities, he said, is the shortage of farm labr.

PASTORS PICK MILLERSBURG

Central Conference Lutheran Convention Closes With Plans For Next Year.

As sessions of the Central conference convention of the Lutheran Synod of Ohio closed Tuesday afternoon at St. Matthew's Lutheran church after a two-day meeting, Millersburg was selected the convention center for next year.

An invitation was accepted to hold the pre-Lenten retreat for the conference in the St. Paul Lutheran church of Mansfield early in March. Rev. Herman L. Gilbert was named to prepare next year's presentation on article 25 of the Augsburg Confession.

In speaking before the group, Dr. George W. Miley, president of Synod, emphasized the importance of the approaching 13th biennial convention of the United Lutheran church in America in Louisville, Ky., Oct. 14 to 21. Those having been named to represent the conference are Rev. D. Bruce Young of Shelby, Rev. W. M. Hackenberg of Zanesville, and Rev. Simon A. Metzger of Crestline, C. S. Stroup of Shelby, Judge W. J. Schwenck of Bucyrus, and Walter Firestone of Ashland. Others from Mansfield and this area are expecting to attend in an unofficial capacity.

A considerable sum of money was voted for Lutheran World Action in which the men in the armed forces will be aided, and for the improvement of the Lutheran Youth Camp, Camp Mowana near Mansfield.

SHADES OF ADAM AND EVE--NOW THEY'LL MAKE RUBBER OF FIGS

(By United Press)

CINCINNATI—The tree that furnished Adam and Eve with their clothing soon may provide their 20th century descendants with another precious commodity - automobile tires.

Dr. Alfred Lonsing of Cincinnati, who directed a group of scientists in a year's study at Palm Beach, Fla., revealed today that he had discovered a Florida fig tree capable of producing an excellent grade of rubber.

His findings were reported before the annual conference of the Institutum Divi Thomae, a Catholic academy operated by the Cincinnati archdiocese and devoted to scientific research.

Lonsing said that a ficus aurea or "Florida strangling fig" tree capable of producing a quality of latex superior to that of the Guayule shrub had been found growing profusely in scattered sections of Florida.

"It might well be used for making an excellent grade of rubber," he said.

Lonsing admitted, however, that he had not delved into the problem of the fig tree's production and said that guayule might be superior rubber source because of the larger supply.

He also told the academy that in his research he had discovered an American seaweed which could produce enough agar to make the United States independent of imports. Prior to the outbreak of the war agar was obtained exclusively from Japan.

It is essential in the making of laboratory cultures and laxatives.

TRUSTEES MEET

Juvenile Court Functions Are Explained By Judge.

..Functions of the county juvenile court were discussed last night by Juvenile Judge Stuart H. Cramer at a meeting of the Richland County Association of Township Trustees and Clearks at the courthouse.

Also appearing on the program was J. R. Thomas of Hayesville, state president of the township officials' organization.

Candidates for county offices and state representative from Richland county were introduced and each was given a chance to speak briefly.

Dems Arrange Meeting, Invite State Candidates.

Plans for a county-wide Democratic rally in Mansfield Oct. 13 when candidates for state offices will be here were mapped last night at a meeting of the Richland County Young Democratic club.

Miss Mary Newcomer, president of the club, said the speakers probably will be headed by John McSweeney, Democratic candidate for governor. All state and district candidates will be invited to speak.

Party candidates for county offices spoke at last night's session in the club's headquarters on North Main street. About 75 members attended.

THREE ASSURED IN JUDGE RACE

Bettman Reports Petitions O. K. in Bettman Post Run-Off.

COLUMBUS —(AP)— A three-way race for the supreme court seat left vacant by the death of Judge Gilbert Bettman of Cincinnati was assured today as Secretary of State John E Sweeney reported nominating petitions of all three candidates apparently sufficient.

Sweeney said a very small percentage of signatures on the three petitions were being invalidated by county election boards checking them.

The candidates are Common Pleas Judge Charles S. Bell (R.) of Cincinnati, backed by the Republican state oragnization; Attorney Thomas J. Duffy (D.) of Columbus, backed by the Democratic state organization, and Common Pleas Judge Guy B. Findley (R.) of Elyria.

The interim term for which the three candidates are runing expires Jan. 1, 1947.

LODGEMAN DIES

CINCINNATI—(AP)—William H. Armstrong, 86, one of the oldest 33rd degree Masons in the United States, died last night in Deaconess hospital. Armstrong retired more than 20 years ago after 42 years as superintendent of printing for the American Book company.

He received the Masonic order's highest honor in Providence, R. I., just 40 years ago today.

REACHES MARSEILLES

Box Office Hits $2,300,000 for Wake Island Pic

CHICAGO —(INS)— The Roosevelt theater reported today a $2,300,000 box office business at the premiere showing of the motion picture, "Wake Island."

It was strictly a "gilt-edged" audience, since the lowest priced seats among the 1,700 were $500 each in war bonds. The highest priced seats went for a cool $10,000 war bond purchase each. In between there were seats to fit the pocketbook, that is, some pocketbooks.

Several couples whose sons were on Wake Island when it was captured by the Japs and presumably are prisoners of war were personal guests of the management last night in $5,000 seats.

BRAZIL ORDERS MOBILIZATION

Vargas Spurs National Action Against Axis Foe.

RIO DE JANEIRO—(AP)—President Getulio Vargar ordered general mobilization today throughout Brazil.

Brazil declared war against Germany and Italy last Aug. 22 after incurring heavy losses from Axis attacks on her merchant shipping. Since then Brazilian sea and air forces have been helping the Allies combat the enemy sea menace.

The general mobilization extends steps already taken by the Brazilian government which have put the nation on a military basis. Brazil could place 250,000 trained infantrymen in the field.

SETTLE DOWN

U. S. Troops Comfortable at New Base in Africa.

LONDON — (INS) — United States troops quartered at Leopoldville in the Belgian Congo have "shaken down" quickly and comfortably at their base at Camp Roosevelt, a Reuter's dispatch from Leopoldville reported today.

The American contingent is based just across the border from the fighting French headquarters at Brazzaville in French Equatorial Africa.

PLENTY OF SQUIRRELS?

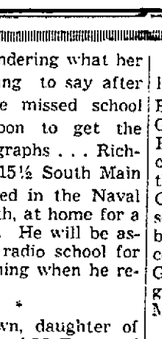
COLUMBUS—(AP)— Hunters in 52 southern Ohio counties where the squirrel season opened yesterday found game plentiful, the state conservation division reported. The season in 36 northern counties opens Sept. 22. The closing date is Sept. 30 throughout the state.

HOLLYWOOD

—By Robbin Coons

HOLLYWOOD — When James K. Friedrich was a boy back in Red Wing, Minn., he was a regular movie fan. He was the kind of movie fan who was bound to come to Hollywood sooner or later, and he did — sooner and later.

The first time he hadn't any luck. He did the usual filling station - parking lot - odd jobs waiting for his chance. It didn't come. He went home.



Coons

Leaning toward the ministry all the time, he went ahead with his education and still didn't forget about Hollywood. His thesis at the Protestant Episcopal Theological seminary in Alexandria, Va., was a life of St. Paul—in scenario form.

"Some day I'd like to make a feature picture on St. Paul," says the Rev. James K. Friedrich today. He's Hollywood's only minister-movie producer.

Here's how it came about. When his father, a wholesale grocer, left him $200,000, Mr. Friedrich brought it to Hollywood with an idea for combining his two passions, religion and films. He formed Cathedral Films, with the help of a veteran movie man named John T. Coyle, and he made (for $120,000 in 18 days) a feature called "The Great Commandment."

Darryl Zanuck of 20th liked it well enough to buy it outright, giving Cathedral a profit of $60,000. Zanuck planned to remake the film as a super-super with Tyrone Power, but finally released it as was. Mr. Friedrich is unhappy, very unhappy about it all (he has a clipping of "Commandment's" double-billing with the Gable - Lana Turner sex - fest "Honky Tonk") but he finds consolation in the $60,000 profit which has gone toward launching his current series of short religious films for church and school use. Another "Great Commandment" salvage is the new success of Irving Pichel, the director who went on to 20th to make "The Pied Piper" and other fine movies.

The young minister - producer makes 20-minute pictures on biblical themes for $12,000 apiece. He uses regular actors, at Guild rates, but gives them no billing — "I don't want youngsters to look for favorite actors. I want them to see the stories," he says.

* * *

He expects his project to prosper, and lead to bigger films, after the war when more churches can be equipped with 16mm. projectors, now impossible to obtain because of army demands. "I hope they'll allow churches first chance at those army projectors after the war," he says. "Those that have rented our first film have rented them all. The pictures double Sunday school attendance, for one thing."

CHAPTER XXVI

By the next morning Amy had put her thoughts in order — if there could be any order to all this misunderstanding and misery.

She realized that whatever Marcia had told Paul she had not done it in malice. There was no malice in Marcia. Marcia would merely consider that she was telling her fiance something about two persons who were almost members of their family circle. She would consider that she had to tell him, perhaps that she ought to. And certainly Marcia believed what she had said.

Amy could imagine just how Marcia must have written. She would be all sympathy and understanding. She would write feelingly of her admiration for Guy and Amy. She would be sincere and serious about it all. That would make it so much more plausible than gossip. She must have gone into detail too. But she must have colored her story without meaning to. That was why Paul had believed.

But Paul hadn't believed altogether. He had had enough doubt to come to Cincinnati finally to find out. But why hadn't he given her a chance to explain there in the theater? That was partly her own fault, she told herself. She had flared up at him so quickly. If only he hadn't surprised her just when she was so angry and upset over Mrs. Actling's insinuations!

If—if—if! All this retrospection wasn't getting her anywhere. Except to show her how childish they had both been. Undoubtedly Paul would realize that too. He would come to see her sometime during the day.

She waited in her room all morning in dizzy anticipation. By afternoon the anticipation had given away to a dull apathy. She went downtown on some errands, but she telephoned from there and asked, "Did anyone call for me?" No, no one had called for her. No one had called when she got back either.

While they were all at supper, Amy and the Eckerts and Guy and Nurse Bolton and Daphne in her wheeled chair, the door-bell rang. Her heart jumped into her throat. It seemed she could hardly breathe during the long time it took Mama Eckert to walk to the front door. It seemed she couldn't go on a second longer pretending she wasn't interested.

Then the door opened and there was no longer any need of pretending. For Marcia came in alone, a glorified Marcia who told them, "I've been entertaining company! Paul was here last night."

"Why didn't he come out?" Mama Eckert asked.

"He did. He said he came out about 8 o'clock and that you were all gone. Miss Bolton told him you'd gone to the symphony. He had so little time so he came to see me. You see, he came through with another man driving an army truck. I don't understand it all. But anyway they were here just two hours. But listen, everybody! He's bought that mountain cabin. You've heard him speak of it haven't you, Amy?"

Amy nodded.

"He paid only eight hundred dollars for it. You know he had eight thousand dollars from the sale of the picture to Mrs. Ainslee. But he used most of it to pay a debt."

She flushed, changed the subject. "He was cross and tired like a child. But I didn't care. I was so glad to have him even for an hour."

Amy kept on eating — sticking her fork into morsels of food, putting them in her mouth like a robot, her eyes lowered.

But when she glanced up at last Guy was looking at her and his look was one of concern and understanding. Then he began to talk to Marcia and Amy knew he was doing it to turn attention from her.

When Marcia had left and the Eckerts had gone to bed, Amy slipped out to the kitchen to get the nightly glass of milk the doctor had prescribed, Guy was there.

He got the milk bottle from the refrigerator and poured some in her glass and handed it to her as he might have served Daphne. Then he poured one for himself.

He didn't look at her curiously. He didn't ask questions. But she felt he was there because he knew just how she must be feeling, and he wanted to give her whatever support he could. She was very grateful.

"Guy, you're a Rock of Gibraltar," she told him.

"I'm glad," he said simply.

Then, somehow, she was telling him how she and Paul had quarreled in the theater, but she found she couldn't tell him why and that left the story hanging in mid air.

Guy asked her though, his steady grey eyes on her, "Was it something about me?"

"Yes," she said frankly.

"But they ought to know you weren't concerned with me. They might have guessed that I was in love with you." He smiled — a twisted smile. "I hadn't meant to tell you. That is, not just now. I'd hoped— Oh, well, all this has brought it out."

"I didn't know," she began. "That is—not until—"

"Until the other night? I'm sorry if you found out then. I'm sorry if my love has hurt you."

"But it hasn't," she hastened to say, "It's an honor to be loved by you. You're the best, the finest, the—"

"But you don't love me," he finished gently.

"I—you're the sort of man I would have loved if—if I hadn't met Paul. You're the sort I'd always thought I'd love."

"And you're the sort I'd have loved if I hadn't met Frani," he said. "But I don't love Frani. I can't feel any regret that she's gone. That's the test, I suppose . . . But you do love Paul?"

"I—I don't know. Just now I hate him!"

"You have to love a man a great deal in order to hate him," he told her. "It's not fair though to ask you these questions now. I don't know that it'll ever be fair to ask you. I don't like a love that has to hide in corners. I don't mean, of course, that love itself is ever a thing to be ashamed of. It's what you do with love that counts."

"I never thought until tonight that anyone would impute sneaky motives to me," she said. "That Mrs. Actling makes me crawl."

"It never occurred to me either," he said.

Then she told him that she wanted to leave his house—as soon as possible. "Not because of people like Mrs. Actling . . . Well, yes, partly because of them. But more because . . . we couldn't go on now."

"No," he agreed. "We couldn't go on. If I could find some sort of really good job for you—"

"You couldn't," she said quickly. "I want to do it myself. I want to separate myself from everything that's happened these past months. I want to get off and think and set myself straight."

"If you'll think of me—" he began. "No, I won't ask that. Darn it! I sound as if I were noble! I'm not. Of course I don't want you to forget me. And I do ask this much, Amy. Promise me you won't leave Cincinnati without letting me know."

She promised and was amazed to discover how forlorn she felt at the thought of being away from him.

She was surprised too the next day to find that when she looked at Daphne she did not see the black curls and the funny furious little scowl that reminded her of Paul and Frani. She saw instead the steady, dark grey eyes that belonged to Guy's child.

Yes, it was time to leave that house. But the leaving was not as simple as she had thought it would be. The city was no more eager for her or her talents than it had been five months earlier.

Then help came from the quarter where she had least expected it.

When she came in late in the afternoon after her second day of making the rounds of stores and offices she found Dr. Ames in the living-room showing Guy and Marcia a pair of small crutches. Amy would have gone upstairs immediately. She didn't want to talk to either Marcia or Dr. Ames. But Daphne called from her bed in the adjoining room.

"Tudor! Tudor. Don't go upstairs. In a minute I'm going to walk."

"Oh! Then I must be here!" Amy said. "I'll just hurry upstairs and take off my things and wash my face and pin my ears back. I'll be right down."

But she did not go upstairs immediately for just as she was about to close the stairway door behind her she caught a fragment of something Dr. Ames was saying.

"The position requires someone who speaks several languages, a person who has understanding, a gift for play and for making people feel comfortable."

Then she heard Marcia say, "I'd like to try it myself."

Dr. Ames said, "No. You wouldn't do. You couldn't live at the house. And you couldn't give all your time to it. Of course the salary isn't much, but they ought to be able to find someone."

A position? A salary? Amy stood poised on the bottom step. They weren't talking to her. There was a time when she wouldn't have thought of interrupting. But after two days of waiting in offices and forcing herself past secretaries she realized the need of aggression. She went back and faced them. Guy had gone into Daphne's room. There were only Dr. Ames and Marcia.

"I couldn't help overhearing you," Amy said. "You spoke of a position for a person who speaks several languages. I thought it might interest me." She knew she sounded stiff. She couldn't help it with Dr. Ames looking off over her head as though she were part of the furniture.

Demands Joint Wage-Price Stabilizing

BROADWAY

—By Dorothy Kilgallen

Miss Midnight's Notebook.

Manhattan Glitter: Hedy LaMarr giving the Rainbow room a thrill . . . Leonora Corbett, the blithe spirit, wafting into the Stork Club in good company—half a dozen youngsters from the RAF . . . Renee DeMarco wearing the latest thing in gloves—white suede, with a black silhouette of the boy friend on the gauntlett . . . Patti, Maxene and LaVerne Andrews picking up a Lindy's check for their three guests—a soldier, a sailor and a marine . . . Grace Moore and Cole Porter making dialogue at the 1-2-3 . . . Brig. Gen. Jimmy Doolittle showing the Martini-queens how to use highball stirrers as chopsticks . . . Alexander Woollcott and Bing Crosby creating a buzz in the Algonquin lobby. Did you know that Local 802's fond nickname for Bing is "The Groaner?"

This Was the Week in Which: Ralph Bellamy, who never gets the girl in the movies, was mobbed by femmes both at the Diamond Horseshoe and the Hurricane . . . Most New Yorkers slept or danced through the surprise early a. m. air raid signal . . . Herbert Hoover, Hedy LaMarr and Dorothy Lamour arrived in town, gladdening the hearts of Republicans and beauty-lovers, respectively . . . William Saroyan became a leading candidate for the job of drama critic on a morning newspaper, and the wags immediately demanded to know who'd get the job of decoding his reviews . . . Meyer Davis sent out a call for girl musicians, because so many boy musicians have been drafted . . . Mickey Rooney admitted that "Andy Hardy Takes a Wife" wasn't his most successful role.

A Stone's Throw From Broadway: Oona O'Neill won $100 at the Stork Club the other night and sprinted up the stairs to the powder room to give $10 of it to the maid . . . Walter O'Keefe, who moved into the Berkshire Hotel because he loved the Barberry Room there, had to move out again because he was spending all his time in the Barberry and wasn't getting any gag-writing done. Now he's at the Ritz Towers, and work seems to be moving along at a satisfactory pace . . . Georgie Jessel was boastfully flashing a check for $1.62 around the bistros the other evening. His semi-annual royalties on "My Mother's Eyes" . . . Bob Evans, the comedian, is the only ventriloquist I ever say who actually takes his dummy around to the night clubs with him. Bob's wooden partner is a snippy little fellow named Jerry O'Leary, who doesn't drink nor smoke.

Fables From the Forties: David Lichine, the ballet dancer, who is doing the chorography for George Abbott's new musical, "Beat the Band," isn't very "hep" to the roster of American dancers, and his innocence on this score has caused quite a bit of merriment among chorus kids in the show

The other day they brought a lean, lanky youth to the theater and asked Lichine to give him an audition. A confirmed yes man to struggling talent, Lichine said yes and sat in the orchestra with the "Beat the Band" steppers to watch the newcomer stumble through a routine that was so bad it was hilarious. The kids laughed every time the auditioner's legs went askew, and Lichine was indignant.

When the dance was finished he took the awkward young man aside and gave him a few words of fatherly advice.

"If I were you," he said, "I'd go home and study those steps some more. With practise, I'm sure you'll be good enough for a Broadway show."

P. S.—No one in the cast has yet had the nerve to tell Lichine that the awkward young man was Hal LeRoy, assisting them in a good-natured gag.

* * *

All Around The Town: Averell Harriman, back from Russia, relaxing in the gilded saloons . . . Abbott and Costello, the funnymen, taking Miriam LaVelle for a tour of the night spots—and getting her home by midnight, on mama's orders . . . Tallulah Bankhead at LaRuban Bleu, applauding her ex-leading man, Fred Keating . . . Una Merkel, looking so much prettier than her film images . . . Tom Dewey signing his autograph at the Olney Inn, just like a movie fella . . . Walter Abel, doing the rumba with a neat brunette package . . . And if you think glamor girls haven't been affected by the various shortages you should drop backstage to the chorus girls' dressing room at Leon and Eddie's, any night, and watch the little darlings play gin rummy—for hair pins and bobby pins!

VOTES PILE UP IN PRIMARIES OF SIX STATES

Incumbent Unseated By Former Mississippi Senator; Lodge Takes Lead.

(By International News Service)

Former U. S. Senator James O. Eastland today unseated Sen. Wall Doxey in the Mississippi Democratic runoff, tantamount to election, as latest returns rolled in from primaries in five other states—Massachusetts, Michigan, New Jersey, New Hampshire and Wisconsin.

Latest returns showed:

Massachusetts—U. S. Senator Henry Cabot Lodge (R.) was renominated by a wide margin over Courtenay Crocker. Rep. Joseph E. Casey apparently won the Democratic senatorial nomination.

Michigan—Circuit Judge Homer Ferguson, of Detroit, piled up an increasing lead for the Republican U. S. Senatorial nomination over the Rev. Gerald L. K. Smith, former Huey P. Long lieutenant. Rep. Clare Hoffman, New Deal foe, was leading his nearest opponent 2-1 for Republican nomination to the house. Reps. W. Shafer and Baretel Jonkman, held smaller leads.

New Jersey — Albert Hawkes was trailing Gill Robb Wilson in a neck-and-neck race for the right to oppose Sen. Smathers (D.) in the November elections.

New Hampshire—Former Republican Gov. Francis P. Murphy was nominated by a two to one vote for the Democratic senate seat over Alvin A. Lucier. U. S. Sen. Styles Bridges far out-distanced Arthur J. Gruenler for the Republican nomination. Rep. Arthur A. Jenks was leading in the first district and Rep. Foster Stearns was ahead in the second district Republican primaries.

Wisconsin—Gov. Julius P. Heil received virtually a landslide endorsement for the Republican nomination for a third term. Four incumbent congressmen were holding their leads, Reps. Stevenson (R.), Thill (R.), Murray (R.), and Gehrmann (P.). Six incumbents were unopposed for nomination.

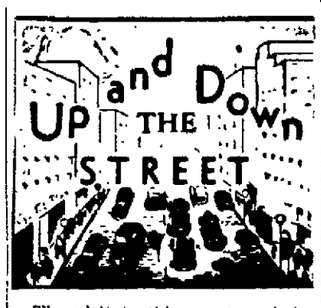
Up and Down the Street



The visit to this country of the international head of the Salvation Army, General George Carpenter, i. creating no end of speculation in the local corps as to the representation Mansfield will have at a division meeting to be held by the Salvation Army of 13 states in New York city in October. Adjt. Paul Hoffman said that this section would send a delegation to "sit in" on the conference held for the purpose of discussing wartime problems. General Carpenter recently arrived in this country by plane from London.

Gazing at the stars yesterday was slightly expensive to W. C. McCracken, 345 High street, he told police. While he stood in a crowd near the Mansfield-Leland hotel to get a glimpse of Illona Massey, Fred Astaire and Hugh Herbert, film notables here in connection with the war bond campaign, his billfold was taken from hip pocket. McCracken reported to police that important cards and papers were taken, along with a small amount of cash.

Rowlands, have a walking hike scheduled later, while troop 3, led by Mrs. M. W. Stretch, will make a trek by bicycle.

FARM BUREAU CHIEF ASKS FOR 'PARITY'

Says Pegging of Agriculture Income Futile Without Control of Earnings.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—President Edward A. O'Neal of the American Farm Bureau federation today declared that all efforts to combat inflation will be "futile" unless wages are stabilized with farm prices and proposed that farm price ceilings be set at parity, plus an amount to meet agriculture wage increases.

In a statement prepared for presentation before the senate banking committee which continued hearings today on President Roosevelt's anti-inflation program, O'Neal said that "effective price control is possible only when wages, which constitute the largest single factor in the cost of production of industrial goods, are brought under control."

Declaring that "it is far more important : control wages than it is to control farm prices," O'Neal said that to stabilize farm prices and then wages would be like putting "the cart before the horse," because "parity is a relative yardstick—parity itself rises with rising costs."

"Parity is like a can tied to a dog's tail," he said. "You can tie it so that the can is just two feet behind the dog, but if the dog climbs a hill, then the can will go up too, even though you keep it always two feet behind the dog.

"If we tie up the dog, neither the dog nor the can will climb any higher. If wages can be stabilized effectively, then it will be an easy matter to stabilize farm prices."

O'Neal said that the primary objective should be to get a formula which will assure abundant production—stabilizing prices at levels which will permit farmers to compete with other employers in securing labor. The most serious obstacle to continued high production of farm commodities, he said, is the shortage of farm labr.

PASTORS PICK MILLERSBURG

Central Conference Lutheran Convention Closes With Plans For Next Year.

As sessions of the Central conference convention of the Lutheran Synod of Ohio closed Tuesday afternoon at St. Matthew's Lutheran church after a two-day meeting, Millersburg was selected the convention center for next year.

An invitation was accepted to hold the pre-Lenten retreat for the conference in the St. Paul Lutheran church of Mansfield early in March. Rev. Herman L. Gilbert was named to prepare next year's presentation on article 25 of the Augsburg Confession.

In speaking before the group, Dr. George W. Miley, president of Synod, emphasized the importance of the approaching 13th biennial convention of the United Lutheran church in America in Louisville, Ky., Oct. 14 to 21. Those having been named to represent the conference are Rev. D. Bruce Young of Shelby, Rev. W. M. Hackenberg of Zanesville, and Rev. Simon A. Metzger of Crestline, C. S. Stroup of Shelby, Judge W. J. Schwenck of Bucyrus, and Walter Firestone of Ashland. Others from Mansfield and this area are expecting to attend in an unofficial capacity.

A considerable sum of money was voted for Lutheran World Action in which the men in the armed forces will be aided, and for the improvement of the Lutheran Youth Camp, Camp Mowana near Mansfield.

TRUSTEES MEET

Juvenile Court Functions Are Explained By Judge.

Functions of the county juvenile court were discussed last night by Juvenile Judge Stuart H. Cramer at a meeting of the Richland County Association of Township Trustees and Clearks at the courthouse.

Also appearing on the program was J. R. Thomas of Hayesville, state president of the township officials' organization.

Candidates for county offices and state representative from Richland county were introduced and each was given a chance to speak briefly.

SHADES OF ADAM AND EVE--NOW THEY'LL MAKE RUBBER OF FIGS

(By United Press)

CINCINNATI—The tree that furnished Adam and Eve with their clothing soon may provide their 20th century descendants with another precious commodity — automobile tires.

Dr. Alfred Lonsing of Cincinnati, who directed a group of scientists in a year's study at Palm Beach, Fla., revealed today that he had discovered a Florida fig tree capable of producing an excellent grade of rubber.

His findings were reported before the annual conference of the Institutum Divi Thomae, a Catholic academy operated by the Cincinnati archdiocese and devoted to scientific research.

Lonsing said that a ficus aurea or "Florida strangling fig" tree capable of producing a quality of latex superior to that of the Guayule shrub had been found growing profusely in scattered sections of Florida.

"It might well be used for making an excellent grade of rubber," he said.

Lonsing admitted, however, that he had not delved into the problem of the fig tree's production and said that guayule might be superior rubber source because of the larger supply.

He also told the academy that in his research he had discovered an American seaweed which could produce enough agar to make the United States independent of imports. Prior to the outbreak of the war agar was obtained exclusively from Japan.

It is essential in the making of laboratory cultures and laxatives.

DIES AT AGE 80

Nicholas Folmer Succumbs After Long Illness.

Nicholas Folmer, 80, Mansfield resident for nearly 40 years, died at General hospital this morning after a long illness.

He was born in Austria-Hungary, Sept. 8, 1862, and was a tinner by trade. He retired nine years ago.

Three sons and two daughters survive. They are, George Folmer of Cheyenne, Wyo; Jacob and Michael Folmer, Mrs. John Enderle and Mrs. Michael Speas of Mansfield. Fifteen grandchildren and 17 great-grandchildren also survive, with two brothers, Steve Folmer of Mansfield, and Peter Folmer of Detroit.

The body has been taken to the Geiger funeral home, pending funeral arrangements.

UP TO BOARD

Two Ohio Wage Disputes Certified by Labor Secretary.

WASHINGTON —(U.P.)— Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins yesterday certified to the war labor board a wage dispute between the United Automobile Workers (CIO) and the National Malleable & Steel Casting company, Cleveland, affecting 1,412 workers.

Miss Perkins also certified a wage dispute between the Mechanics Educational society (unaffiliated) and Baker Brothers, Inc., Toledo, O., involving 260 workers.

DEATH CLAIMS CLINTON REED

Richland County Native Dies In Weller Township.

Clinton Reed, 69, life-long Richland county resident, died at his home in Weller township early today.

He is survived by his widow, one son, Russell A. Reed, two sisters, Mrs. I. M. Barnett of Mansfield, Mrs. Nannie Buzzard of Ashland, and two brothers, Ford Reed of Ashland and Brice Reed of Shelby.

Funeral services will be conducted Friday at 2 p. m. at the Jones Memorial with the Rev. B. F. Hagelbarger, pastor of the Christian church officiating. Burial will be made in the Mansfield cemetery.

PLAN FOR RALLY

Dems Arrange Meeting, Invite State Candidates.

Plans for a county-wide Democratic rally in Mansfield Oct. 13 when candidates for state offices will be here were mapped last night at a meeting of the Richland County Young Democratic club.

Miss Mary Newcomer, president of the club, said the speakers probably will be headed by John McSweeney, Democratic candidate for governor. All state and district candidates will be invited to speak.

Party candidates for county offices spoke at last night's session in the club's headquarters on North Main street. About 75 members attended.

THREE ASSURED IN JUDGE RACE

Bettman Reports Petitions O. K. in Bettman Post Run-Off.

COLUMBUS —(AP)— A three-way race for the supreme court seat left vacant by the death of Judge Gilbert Bettman of Cincinnati was assured today as Secretary of State John E. Sweeney reported nominating petitions of all three candidates apparently sufficient.

Sweeney said a very small percentage of signatures on the three petitions were being invalidated by county election boards checking them.

The candidates are Common Pleas Judge Charles S. Bell (R.) of Cincinnati, backed by the Republican state oragnization; Attorney Thomas J. Duffy (D.) of Columbus, backed by the Democratic state organization, and Common Pleas Judge Guy B. Findley (R.) of Elyria.

The interim term for which the three candidates are runing expires Jan. 1, 1947.

LODGEMAN DIES

CINCINNATI—(AP)—William H. Armstrong, 86, one of the oldest 33rd degree Masons in the United States, died last night in Deaconess hospital. Armstrong retired more than 20 years ago after 42 years as superintendent of printing for the American Book company.

He received the Masonic order's highest honor in Providence, R. I., just 40 years ago today.

REACHES MARSEILLES

Box Office Hits $2,300,000 for Wake Island Pic

CHICAGO —(INS)— The Roosevelt theater reported today a $2,300,000 box office business at the premiere showing of the motion picture, "Wake Island."

It was strictly a "gilt-edged" audience, since the lowest priced seats among the 1,700 were $500 each in war bonds. The highest priced seats went for a cool $10,000 war bond purchase each. In between there were seats to fit the pocketbook, that is, some pocketbooks.

Several couples whose sons were on Wake Island when it was captured by the Japs and presumably are prisoners of war were personal guests of the management last night in $5,000 seats.

BRAZIL ORDERS MOBILIZATION

Vargas Spurs National Action Against Axis Foe.

RIO DE JANEIRO—(AP)—President Getulio Vargar ordered general mobilization today throughout Brazil.

Brazil declared war against Germany and Italy last Aug. 22 after incurring heavy losses from Axis attacks on her merchant shipping. Since then Brazilian sea and air forces have been helping the Allies combat the enemy sea menace.

The general mobilization extends steps already taken by the Brazilian government which have put the nation on a military basis. Brazil could place 250,000 trained infantrymen in the field.

SETTLE DOWN

U. S. Troops Comfortable at New Base in Africa.

LONDON — (INS) — United States troops quartered at Leopoldville in the Belgian Congo have "shaken down" quickly and comfortably at their base at Camp Roosevelt, a Reuter's dispatch from Leopoldville reported today.

The American contingent is based just across the border from the fighting French headquarters at Brazzaville in French Equatorial Africa.

PLENTY OF SQUIRRELS†

COLUMBUS—(AP)— Hunters in 52 southern Ohio counties where the squirrel season opened yesterday found game plentiful, the state conservation division reported. The season in 36 northern counties opens Sept. 22. The closing date is Sept. 30 throughout the state.

HOLLYWOOD

—By Robbin Coons

HOLLYWOOD — When James K. Friedrich was a boy back in Red Wing, Minn., he was a regular movie fan. He was the kind of movie fan who was bound to come to Hollywood sooner or later, and he did — sooner and later.

The first time he hadn't any luck. He did the usual filling station - parking lot odd jobs waiting for his chance. It didn't come. He went home.

Coons

Leaning toward the ministry all the time, he went ahead with his education and still didn't forget about Hollywood. His thesis at the Protestant Episcopal Theological seminary in Alexandria, Va., was a life of St. Paul—in scenario form.

"Some day I'd like to make a feature picture on St. Paul," says the Rev. James K. Friedrich today. He's Hollywood's only minister-movie producer.

Here's how it came about. When his father, a wholesale grocer, left him $200,000, Mr. Friedrich brought it to Hollywood with an idea for combining his two passions, religion and films. He formed Cathedral Films, with the help of a veteran movie man named John T. Coyle, and he made (for $120,000 in 18 days) a feature called "The Great Commandment."

Darryl Zanuck of 20th liked it well enough to buy it outright, giving Cathedral a profit of $60,000. Zanuck planned to remake the film as a super-super with Tyrone Power, but finally released it as was. Mr. Friedrich is unhappy, very unhappy about it all (he has a clipping of "Commandment's" double-billing with the Gable - Lana Turner sex - fest "Honky Tonk") but he finds consolation in the $60,000 profit which has gone toward launching his current series of short religious films for church and school use. Another "Great Commandment" salvage is the new success of Irving Pichel, the director who went on to 20th to make "The Pied Piper" and other fine movies.

The young minister - producer makes 20-minute pictures on biblical themes for $12,000 apiece. He uses regular actors, at Guild rates, but gives them no billing — "I don't want youngsters to look for favorite actors. I want them to see the stories," he says.

* * *

He expects his project to prosper, and lead to bigger films, after the war when more churches can be equipped with 16mm. projectors, now impossible to obtain because of army demands. "I hope they'll allow churches first chance at those army projectors after the war," he says. "Those that have rented our first film have rented them all. The pictures double Sunday school attendance, for one thing."

OFFICERS INSTALLED AT NEWMAN SCHOOL

Mrs. I. W. Basinger Has Charge of Ceremony at First Meeting of P. T. A. Tuesday; Committee Chairmen Introduced.

GROUP SINGING led by Miss Doris Mann and accompanied by Miss Helen Bein opened the first meeting of the Newman School P. T. A. in the school auditorium last evening. The resignation of Miss Margaret Hopper, who was transferred to Hedges school, was read and accepted. Mrs. Lois Pennell was unanimously elected secretary-treasurer of the group.

As representative of the P. T. A. council, Mrs. I. W. Basinger installed the new officers and representatives: Mrs. H. F. Plaut, president; Stewart Watson, vice president; Mrs. Pennell, secretary-treasurer; Mrs. Walter McEvoy, Miss Frances Gage and Mrs. Charles Robinson, representatives to the council. Mrs. Basinger closed the ceremony by reading the national P. T. A. wartime pledge.

The following committee chairmen were introduced: Mrs. Joseph Kocsovsky, health; Mrs. John Stephenson, membership; Mrs. Carl Wander, hospitality; Mrs. Peter Keiser, publicity; Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Carmen, ways and means; W. A. Freeman, legislative; Mrs. Stewart Watson, magazines; Miss Bein, music; Mrs. Leo Karsmizki, garden; Mrs. Peter Halvax, program; Mrs. Rosalie Fensch, historian.

The school will have a health program for the council with Mrs. Halvax in charge. Mrs. Pennell gave a report on the completion of enlarging the Newman library and a vote of thanks was given by the group to the board, Supt. W. L. Miller and J. B. Moke. The membership drive started Monday will end Oct. 13, the date of the next meeting. Mrs. Plaut was appointed delegate to the convention to be held in Akron. Miss Helen Dove, teacher of first grade, and Miss Margaret Whitten, who is doing student participation work at Newman school before returning to Ohio State university, were introduced.

Mrs. Richard Fensch and Mrs. Paul McConnell of the Astowela Garden club presented cash awards for the best victory garden flowers and vegetables, which were on display at the meeting. Twenty-six of the 31 gardens were completed. Prizes were awarded as follows: first, Duane Mellick; second, Mary Jane Halvax; third, Betty Strolein, Carleton Perrine, Donna Mae Theding, Marilyn Hammer, Daniel Schulte; honorable mention, Sandra Searfos, Beverly Riggleman, Kenneth Place, and Thomas Plaut. Refreshments were served in the library by Mrs. Wander and her committee.

CRESCENDO CLUB TO MEET.

First fall meeting of the Crescendo club will be held Thursday evening at 7:30 o'clock at the home of the counselor, Mrs. George W. Hall, 549 Highland avenue. President of the club is Helen Hagelbarger. Refreshments will be devoted to hearing recordings of music of the Allied Nations. Boys and girls of high school age are invited to attend the meeting and to become members of the club.

Delegates Named For Convention Held In October

For the corn roast in South park Monday evening, 18 members and guests, Mrs. Richard Wolford and Mrs. Jack Drago, of the Florence Welty Missionary society from the First Lutheran church, attended. Hostesses were Mrs. Rosella Lorentz, Miss Doris Simmons and Mrs. Dolly Diehm.

Leaders for the study topic, "Today's Child in Tomorrow's World," were Miss Reba Robinson and Mrs. Roy Reese. Business was conducted by president, Mrs. Gladys Brightbill, who appointed the chairman and committee for Mission Study day to be held at the church sometime in October.

Delegates named to the convention at the St. Paul's Lutheran church in Bucyrus on Oct. 21 to 22 are: Mrs. Bessie Martin, Mrs. Ruth Johnson and Mrs. Diehm. The women made Mrs. Milton Johnson a lifetime member of the society. Next meeting will be Oct. 12 at the home of Miss Betty Burgett, 154 Sturges avenue.

Patriotic Theme Used at Party

September meeting of the Excelsior class of the First Lutheran church was held Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Leslie K. Wagner, 381 Overlook road. Mrs. Marvin Stevens was associate hostess. After the business session games were enjoyed with Mrs. M. D. Harnly and Miss Cecille Marti winning the prizes. Luncheon was served buffet style.

A patriotic theme was carried out with red, white and blue decorations. Plans were made to have a Hallowe'en party at the Harnly home, 807 Park avenue west, on Oct. 13.

Hope Club Members Purchase Stamps

Mrs. Fred Foss, 204 South Franklin street, was hostess to the Hope club meeting Monday for ten members and one guest, Mrs. Norman Dinninger. At the business meeting, each member bought war savings stamps.

Winners for the bingo games were Mrs. Tom Gregg and Mrs. Dinninger. Luncheon was served at a long table decorated in green and white. Place for the Oct. 12 meeting will be announced.

Anniversary and Birthday Celebrated Yesterday

Shown at left are Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Brown, 576 Arlington avenue, who quietly observed their 55th wedding anniversary at their home yesterday. They were married in Loudonville in 1887 and moved to Mansfield in 1896. Three of their seven sons now living are Lawrence of Columbus, Cloyd and Stephen of this city. Mrs. Brown is now 78 years old and her husband, 76. Until a few years ago he devoted his full time to railroad maintenance work, farming and for the last 30 years he has followed landscaping at various places here. At the right are guests of little five year old Charleen Appleman for her party given yesterday by her mother, Mrs. Paul E. Appleman, Herring avenue. First row shows Jeanie White, the honoree, and Donald Berry. Those in the second row are Bobby Hoffman, Rodney Darling, Karol Boetcher, Sue Whitmore and Patty Milligan.

Meetings Held By Committees

Two committees of the Women of the Moose which held meetings Monday evening were the war relief and library groups. Mrs. Amelia Bletz, 414 Henry street, was hostess to the war relief committee members. After the business session the prize in card games was won by Mrs. Paul Ritchie. Roses were decorations for the luncheon table. Mrs. Lillian Hallen was winner of the door prize. The next meeting will be in the form of a steak fry on Oct. 12 at the home of Mrs. Opal Stentz, 806 Lexington avenue.

Ten members of the library committee were present at the meeting in the lodge home. Mrs. Esther Wiparina, chairman, reported that 219 magazines have been delivered to various places that need them. Sales tax stamps and magazines were counted and the group planned to make scrapbooks for the Children's Home. A sack lunch was enjoyed. The Oct. 12 meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Helen Lanning, Averill avenue.

Musical Program Given for Class

Thirty-two persons attended the Star of Hope class meeting last evening at the South Main Street Evangelical church in charge of the vice-president, Mrs. Goldie Gregg. Devotions were led by Mrs. Frank Haldeman.

For the program, piano selections were offered by Jane Bushnell and readings given by Miss Betty Fisher. Lunch was served by Mrs. Gregg, Mrs. Viola Anderson, Mrs. Bertha Touby and Mrs. Jessie Derringer. Next meeting will be a covered-dish dinner.

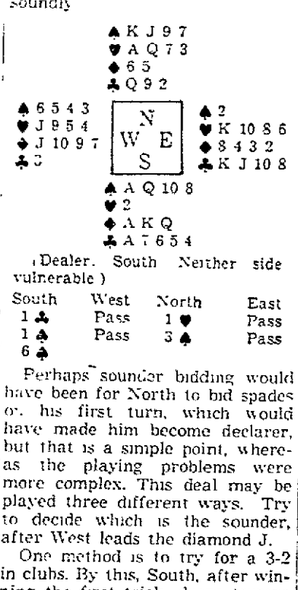
"The Authority on Authorities"

SELECT YOUR RISK

In planning the play of a hand, you usually have to take a choice among two or more different risks. That is, unless it is one of those rare deals in which you have no hazards at all, even of the most remote nature. If there are several possible dangers, the thorough planner decides which he would rather go up against, in his efforts to make the contract. If he can guard himself against a couple of dangers and chance only one, he usually is planning soundly.



(Dealer, South. Neither side vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East
1 ♣	Pass	1 ♥	Pass
1 ♠	Pass	3 ♠	Pass

Perhaps sounder bidding would have been for North to bid spades or, his first turn, which would have made him become declarer, but that is a simple point, whereas the playing problems were more complex. This deal may be played three different ways. Try to decide which is the sounder, after West leads the diamond J.

One method is to try for a 3-2 in clubs. By this, South, after winning the first trick, drops trumps and then leads toward the club Q, hoping to find West with the K. Suppose the K lies wrong, but East has two or three clubs. South can win the return with the A, discard dummy's last club on a diamond, ruff a club to establish the suit, and return with a heart ruff to finish with clubs.

Another method is to count on diamonds being divided no worse than 5-3. By this, he wins the first trick, leads three diamonds for a club discard, cashes the club A, gives up a club trick, then finishes with the heart A and three ruffs each of clubs and hearts. But this fails if the diamonds are divided 6-2. It stakes all on that suit's division.

A third way is, after winning the diamond lead, to put forth a small club at once. If West has the K, you are home right there; if East, you still are okeh for a cross-ruff; that is, unless the K holder has four clubs, so that a ruff sets the contract.

HOROSCOPE

FOR THURSDAY, SEPT. 17

A lively and possibly exciting day is forecast from the predominant planetary configurations, but with possibly various disruptive, confused and unsatisfactory denouements, and perhaps losses of financial nature as well as other mishaps or disappointments. The judgment may not be able to cope with annoying situations or to form profitable conclusions, neither may assistance be counted upon from elders, superiors or those in influential positions. Be wise as to speculation or litigation.

If This Is Your Birthday.

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for a lively year but one with reversals, annoyances and unsatisfactory experiences, this affecting the private as well as the business and financial life. It may be difficult to come to wise decisions because of an unsettled or chactic state of mind and elders, superiors or those in influence may not be depended upon to give the needed advice or substantial cooperation. Shun speculation and legal entanglements.

The next time will be a get-acquainted meeting with a covered-dish dinner at 6:30.

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

I CLOSED the door of Miss Whitlock's room behind me before I spoke. She now rose and came toward me.

"Shall I dress?" she whispered, reaching for her uniform.

I started to say no, but under the sway of the intuition which still held me, I changed it to an affirmative.

"I wish you would," I said, "although I'm probably out of my mind to think you may need it."

She shot a keen, appraising glance at me as she hurried into her uniform.

"I'll back your hunches any day," she said. "What particularly is on your mind?"

"Lillian and Carol," I said.

"They're both asleep—or were when I went in shortly after midnight. They ought to be," she went on, "for I gave each of them a fairly stiff sleeping draught Carolyn had staged so convincing a bout of sobbing that I'm still wondering if it may not have been sincere. Both of them were pretty well upset nervously, and I think they were both glad of the sedative."

Didn't See Them Take It

My intuition was even stronger now, for Lillian is never docile about taking anything that will put her to sleep.

"Please don't be offended," I said, "but did you see them take the sedative?"

She stood motionless for an instant, then swiftly began getting into her uniform, while she answered me.

"Before your question I was sure that I did. But now I remember that their backs were toward me when they drank the mixture. I didn't give the doses to them at the same time, you understand, else their position would have struck me, and each gave a plausible excuse for turning away from me. Why? What's on your mind?"

"Mrs. Underwood knows all the answers at her finger tips," I said. "A folded napkin or handkerchief, or a pad in the top of her dress, would have taken care of the liquid. I'll warrant each asked for a very little water."

"Yes, they did," she returned, staring at me, horrified. "And—yes, before that each offered to prepare the sedative herself. You think then—?"

Sport Podge

by REX HESS

Just what is this thing which is sometimes called "spirit," and sometimes "morale," and sometimes "just plain cockiness?" How important is it, and just how much good is it when you get down to brass tacks?

The question is raised because of a recent statement in the Akron Beacon-Journal that West high school has the toughest assignment of any Akron team in the opening game because the Cowboys meet Mansfield which held last year's great Massillon team to a 6-6 tie.

And the only thing Mansfield has left from last year is that spirit engendered by a championship team, that winning attitude, the will to do or die, and preferably do.

* * *

Mansfield's Tygers lost the top 16 men off last year's squad by graduation. In addition they lost one of the toughest tackles in the state when Johnny Butler joined the marines. They lost another good lineman when Bill Bermilin decided to quit school and go to work. And they lost the one ball-carrier who could make or break this year's ball club when Louie Nameth's doctor told him a recurrence of last year's spinal charley-horse might prove fatal.

That makes 19 men lost off the top of last year's undefeated club. What's left?

The Tygers now have a good, and big, but not very experienced forward wall. They have a backfield that is much faster than that of 1941, but young and green. And MAYBE they have that spirit which hangs over from the championship team of '41.

How far will that spirit carry them? Have they got it and how much good will it do them? And what will the Mansfield reputation of 1941 do toward scaring the Tygers' opponents of '42.

This spirit business is such a theoretical and hypothetical and altogether unmeasurable quality that it really can't be taken into consideration in doping the outcome of any given football game. But it is important, nevertheless.

Spirit is the thing which made a Shelby high school team of last year fight a really great Tyger machine off its feet at different stages of the game, after that same Whippet outfit had quit cold against a ponderous, but by no means brilliant Ashland club a few weeks earlier. The rivalry between Shelby and Mansfield was so old, and the tradition so strong, that the Whippets were an entirely different ball club that night than they were through the rest of the season.

You read every day about "the new coach and the new spirit," of one football team and another.

That's what they're talking about this year at Shelby and Galion, and a lot of other schools right around in this vicinity. But I have yet to see a coach who wouldn't trade a little spirit for a couple of good football players, important as that spirit may be.

It's such a questionable asset.

For myself, I wouldn't fear it, Whether it's spirits, or just spirit.

Jim Bivins Defeats Mauriello

So Now He'll Have To Do It All Over Again.

By RAY BLOSSER

CLEVELAND — (AP) — Slugging Jimmy Bivins proved to 7,794 home-town customers last night that highly touted Tami Mauriello can be beaten but he'll have to do it again soon in New York to convince everybody.

The 177¼-pound Cleveland negro let fly a vicious left hook which parked Tami on the floor for a count of one early in the first round, but the 10-stanza scrap was close enough that Referee Joe Sedley even saw it Mauriello's way, although the two judges thought otherwise.

The Brooklyn Italian, in losing his first fight in 11 starts as a heavyweight, took practically everything Bivins had in the first round but rallied sharply. Tami reached such a peak in the tenth that Bivins buried his head in Mauriello's mid-section to guard ag inst any chance of a knockout.

Afterwards Mauriello, who at 180½ was a 2-3 betting underdog with few takers, said he thought he could beat Bivins in the Gotham return match decreed in the pre-fight agreement, while Bivins naturally disagreed. Tami might have won this time, but after piling up a clear edge in the fifth round, lost it for a low blow.

Sedley called the fight five to four for him with the other round even; one judge thought it was five to four in Bivins' favor, while the other said it was six to three for Bivins.

Even with the $12,000 guaranteed him it was a tough one for the hard-hitting New Yorker to drop. He had knocked out nine heavy-weight foes, took the decision from Tony Musto and was given a draw with Bob Pastor after sending him to the canvas. Bivins likewise has floored bicycling Bob, but lost the decision. In his other starts this year, James handed the light heavyweight champ Gus Lesnevich a pasting in a non-title match, and defeated Billy Soose, Joey Maxim and Joe Muscato.

Jimmy Reeves, 166-pound Cleveland negro, was too ring wise for Phil Muscato, 165, Buffalo, N. Y., and easily won an eight-round decision in their semi-final scrap.

* * *

Sonny Horne, 152, the Niles, O., boxer who has been doing his stuff in New York lately, won all eight rounds from Jimmy Mandell, 162, Buffalo, who substituted for Harvey Dubbs because the Canadian turned up with a bad eye. Johnny Baldensino, 148, Buffalo, failed to answer the bell for the third round of his scheduled eight-stanza mixup with Bobby Smallwood, 123, Akron, captured a close decision from Jimmy Trusso, 125, Cleveland, in four rounds.

Canton and Erie Meet In Playoff

CANTON —(AP)— Canton and Erie clash here tonight in the opener of the four-out-of-seven finals of the Mid-Atlantic league's Shaughnessy playoffs.

Erie, which finished the regular season in fourth place, eliminated Dayton in the semi-finals last night, winning the last game of a three-out-of-five series 3 to 1. Dayton won second place in the season standings.

Canton-third place team, defeated Charleston, 1942 champions, three straight games to enter the finals.

The first two games of the finals will be played here, then the teams go to Erie for three contests. Site of any remaining games will be determined by the toss of a coin.

Dates Set for World Series

CHICAGO —(AP)— The World series will open Sept. 30 on National League ground, but just what team will be at home that day to the American league's New York Yankees is a matter that is up to the St. Louis Cardinals and Brooklyn's Dodgers.

* * *

The Yankees won their way into another World series on Monday, the sixth time in seven years; and yesterday Commissioner K. M. Landis and officials of the two leagues decided dates and other details of the 1942 classic.

They include, in brief:

If the Cardinals win the National League pennant, the following dates will be in effect: Sept. 30, Oct. 1 at St. Louis; Oct. 2 open for traveling; Oct. 3, 4 and 5 at New York; Oct. 6 open for traveling; Oct. 7 at St. Louis; Oct. 8 open for ticket distribution for the final game; Oct. 9 at St. Louis.

If the Dodgers win, these dates will apply: Sept. 30, Oct. 1 at Brooklyn; Oct. 2, 3 and 4 at Yankee Stadium; Oct. 5 at Brooklyn; Oct. 6 open for ticket distribution; Oct. 7 at Brooklyn.

COLUMBUS — (AP) — Gridiron guff!

Ohio Wesleyan university gridders are spending their pre-season training grind at a football camp in the wilds along the Olentangy river south of Delaware.

The boys took to the great outdoors in fine fashion, but some let their beards grow to such length that Coach George E. Gauthier, the "mighty mite" of the Bishops, had to put in a hurry-up call for a barber so he could determine which candidates were making the practice session touchdowns.

At least, that's what George said!

Ohio Wesleyan, by the way, has one player who measures up to that "battling Bishop" tag. He's Dick Drake, Worthington senior and outstanding tackle candidate, who has a pastorate and preaches every Sunday.

Muskingum offers something unusual in gridders in sophomere Ray Pierson, son of a Detroit, Mich., Methodist minister. Ray has the distinction of being named to all-city honorary high school teams in two different cities the same year.

During his senior year, Ray was a member of the Central high school team in Columbus. He played out half the schedule here, and then moved to Toledo, where he picked up the following Saturday as a regular on the Woodward high club. As the season closed he was awarded an all-city berth in each metropolis, although he had appeared only a half season in each.

Short stuff: Baldwin Wallace college is in the market for a football game (two of 'em in fact) for the Nov. 14 and Nov. 21 weekends, and will play you either on your own lot or at Berea . . . Martins Ferry high school, which claimed the 1941 scholastic title after winning 10 in a row before playing a 14-14 deadlock with Toledo Libbey in a post-season tilt, has only three boys back from that powerhouse eleven (the other schools in the eastern sector appear happy about the whole thing) . . . Circleville high school's pigskin chasers should be in good shape for Friday's opener against Chillicothe Central Catholic, for the squad spent two days last week-end "pulling" corn for a farmer who needed help getting in his crop . . . Jack Donovan of East Liverpool's squad was among the first casualties of the scholastic campaign, suffering a broken collar bone in scrimmage last week-end (he's a center) . . . Guess who is being counted on as the navy's ace ball-toter at Annapolis this fall—none other than Hillis Hume, the former Alliance high school star who led the state in scoring a couple of years ago. Over east they say Hume has added weight, speed and finesse since his scholastic days, and we can believe the "weight" part. But the kid had about all the speed and finesse one boy could have when he roamed the Buckeye grids.

RAMS INTRODUCED TO FANS TOMORROW

Madison high school's football Rams will be introduced to the public tomorrow night when Coach Al Fendrick sends his boys through a practice session under the lights at Madison field at 8 o'clock.

The Rams open their season Saturday night, meeting New London on the Madison gridiron.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

NEW YORK—(Wide World)—Frank Frisch, whose Pirates may be the ones to knock Brooklyn clear out of the pennant race, figures the Dodger still have a good chance if one hitter can get hot enough to bring the rest of the club to a boil. . . . But apparently the only place the Dodgers are hot is under Larry MacPhail's collar. . . . Canada's green light (with reservations) for pro hockey gives you an idea what military service and those useful in the war effort have been eliminated, the teams likely will be made up of creaky-kneed old timers and very young, inexperienced kids. . . . But don't look for much minor league hockey—except that played by major league teams

WORKING OVERTIME.

When the baseball team of Local 592 Teamster's Union won a triple header (yeah, that's right) from Highland Springs in the Virginia intercity semi-pro league the other Saturday, Linwood (Pippy) Lacy pitched and won the first two games to give him a record of five victories in seven days. . . . He had won a doubleheader the previous Sunday and a single game in mid-week. . . . Pippy wanted to go right back to the mound in the third game but Manager Oscar Fary argued: "No, save yourself for the playoff."

Horvath Hurt, Lost to Bucks

COLUMBUS—(INS)—Ohio State university's football squad moved into the ninth day of fall practice today without the services of Les Horvath, senior halfback from Cleveland.

Horvath suffered a shoulder injury yesterday while posing for a photographer and although the injury does not appear to be serious at present, Coach Paul E. Brown has his fingers crossed because it was only last week that he lost the services of John White, sophomore end, through a shoulder hurt.

* * *

After yesterday's two drills, Brown took his potential punters and kick receivers onto the stadium turf and worked them overtime in an effort to determine who is going to handle the booting assignment for the Scarlet-clads during the season.

* * *

Following the session, Brown encouragingly stated: "We are becoming more and more satisfied with Gene Fekete's kicking ability every day. He has a powerful leg and if we can develop that distance element a little more, it looks like he will handle the bulk of the work."

Tom Cleary, Cleveland sophomore, has been reinstated at fullback after a futile effort to shift him to end where he might see more action and his valuable punting ability would be of more use.

FOOTBALL TICKETS PLACED ON SALE

Tickets for the Mansfield high school, Akron West high football game Friday night were placed on sale today at Brown's drug store, Yuncker Sports, Tawse Pharmacy and Mansfield Athletic Supply.

They will also be available at tonight's Tyger introduction ceremony under the lights at Stadium field at 8 o'clock, George Sherman, ticket chairman, announced today.

Sherman reported a fine advance sale of season tickets.

SOPHS LOOK GOOD

Tars Defend Good Record

Great Lakes Team Has Fine Old Tradition.

GREAT LAKES, Ill.—(AP)—Returning to the gridiron wars this fall after a 24-year lapse, the Great Lakes Naval Training station presents a great football tradition, but isn't so sure about its team.

The usual troubles of assembling an "all-star" array of talent confront Lieut. Paul D. (Tony) Hinkle, the former Butler university coach and athletic director who has been put in charge of the sailor gridders. He has a half-dozen players of proven worth, either from colleges or professional teams, but isn't exactly sure how to fit them together.

During the first World war Great Lakes won fame throughout the land for the caliber of its team. Such players as George Halas, Paddy Driscoll, Jimmy Conzelman, Hugh Blacklock, Charley Bachman and the late Sam Willaman were the stars of the Tar eleven that went unbeaten in eight regularly-scheduled games. Only a scoreless tie with Northwestern and a 7 to 7 deadlock with Notre Dame marred the record.

Great Lakes had completed its 1917 season with two victories and these, plus the nine-game spread without a defeat in 1918-19, gives the sailors a record of 11 games without a defeat to maintain as they plunge into a 12-game schedule this fall.

Bruce Smith, former All-American halfback at Minnesota, is probably the best known of the current Great Lakes array. But Carl Mulleneaux, formerly of the Green Bay Packers, Bob Sweiger and Urban Odson of Minnesota, Rudy Mucha of Washington, Fred Preston of Nebraska and Jim Daniell of Ohio State are others whose names were standard fare on sports pages the last few autumns.

Smith, Mucha, Sweiger and Pete Kmetovic of Stanford have been Hinkle's first choices in the Great Lakes backfield in the early weeks of practice. The best line appears to be Mulleneaux and Preston ends; Daniell and Odson, tackles; Ted Ramsey of Southern Methodist and Ken Robeskey of Stanford, guards, and Bob Johnson of Purdue, center.

Hinkle has to whip his team together in the shortest possible time, without benefit of a warmup game, for Michigan is the first opponent on the sailor scheduled, at Ann Arbor, on Sept. 26.

After that, in order, Great Lakes plays Iowa at Iowa City, Pittsburgh at Cleveland, Wisconsin at Chicago's Soldier field, Michigan State at East Lansing, Missouri at St. Louis, Purdue at Lafayette, Camp Grant at Rockfield, Ill., Marquette at Milwaukee, Illinois at Champaign, Northwestern at Evanston and Notre Dame in Soldier field.

Meet With Landis to Plan World Series

Judge Kenesaw M. Landis, commissioner of baseball, meets with executives from the American and National leagues to discuss problems relating to the 1942 world series in which the New York Yankees will try for their 10th victory. Left to right are Charles McManus of the Yankees; Leslie O'Connor of the commissioner's office; William Harridge, president of the American league; John MacDonald of the Brooklyn Dodgers; Ford Frick, president of the National league, and Sam Breadon of the St. Louis Cardinals.

Cards Stagger to Win Over Futile Phils

Increase National League Lead To Two Full Games Over Dodgers

By JUDSON BAILEY, Associated Press Sports Writer.

THE DOGFIGHT in the National league became a two-ring circus again today as the Brooklyn Dodgers took up the chase of the St. Louis Cardinals after two days of idleness during which the Redbirds managed to entrench themselves in first place by two full games.

The layoff which the schedule handed the Dodgers at this critical stage provided at least a temporary profit for the Cards because it gave them a working margin for their battle down the stretch.

But there was a possibility that the open dates might favor Brooklyn in the long run.

The fiercely fought series in Philadelphia took so much out of the Cardinals that they appeared groggy yesterday as they dragged down a 3-2 victory over the Phils in 14 innings with the veteran Si Johnson hurling all the way for the losers.

Morton Cooper, winner of 20 games, was on the mound for St. Louis but did not have his customary wares. His teammates gave him a two-run lead in the third inning. Ordinarily this would have been enough, but it wasn't yesterday. Cooper was behind almost every batter, allowed the Phils to tally once in their half of the third, to tie the score on Nick Etten's homer in the eighth, and finally retired under fire with no one out in the ninth after he had given up 10 hits.

Murry Dickson then took charge and pitched six scoreless innings. But the Redbirds were so feeble Dickson himself had to set off the winning spark by hitting a double after two were out in the 14th.

The Redbirds obviously were in a hitting slump as they moved into Boston to close their eastern campaign with two games against the Braves today and tomorrow. They were outhit in three of their four games at Philadelphia and were moving in low gear even before they reached Shibe park.

The Dodgers have now had time to relax before taking on the Pittsburgh Pirates today and tomorrow at Ebbets Field. If they are able to snap out of their five-game losing streak with a strong front against the Pirates, then the layoff will have proved beneficial.

In any case the National league is going to have another tired representative to send into the world series, whether the pennant winner eventually is St. Louis or Brooklyn.

Besides the Cardinals' contest the only other major league game yesterday brought together the Boston Red Sox and Chicago White Sox in the American league, but weather halted play in the fourth inning, forcing cancellation of the game. Chicago was leading 4-3 at the time.

Crisler Has Stars Again

Expected To Extend His Brilliant Record.

By ANTHONY G. DeLORENZO

ANN ARBOR, Mich.—(U P)—The brilliant coaching record Fritz Crisler has compiled since he came to Michigan in 1938 appears certain to be extended this season.

Michigan has been a title contender annually since Crisler succeeded Harry Kipke as the football chief. The consistent Wolverines figure to be in the thick of the Big Ten championship running from the outset this year. Under Crisler Michigan has won 25 games, lost five and tied two. Four of the five defeats were to Minnesota.

Last season Michigan finished in a tie for second place in the conference. It defeated Iowa, Northwestern and Illinois in league ranks, lost to Minnesota and was tied by Ohio State.

The greatest loss from that strong 1941 combination was Bob Westfall, the chunky fullback. Westfall, generally recognized as the greatest exponent of the spinner play in collegiate ranks, furnished both power and reception to the Wolverine's offense. He'll be missed to be sure, but Crisler is well stocked with gifted backs and it is offensively that the team will be strongest.

To take Westfall's place Crisled will make a choice between Don Door, a 185 pound letterman, and Bob Wise, a 193 pound sophomore from Jamestown, N. D. Boor likely will get the call if a knee injured in baseball last spring holds up.

The remainder of the backfield will be composed of boys who held the first string jobs last season. Captain George Ceithaml, a heady field general and fine blocker, will be at quarterback, with Tom Kuzma at left half and Paul White at right half.

Other capable backs on the squad include Cliff Wise, Tom Harmon's understudy in 1940 who was out of school last season, Don Robinson and Sophomores Bob Chappius, Don Lund and Frank Wardley.

From the starting line of last season graduation took both ends, a tackle, and the center. That leaves Crisler with a major rebuilding job for his forward wall.

To form the varsity line Crisler has done much shifting Phil Sharpe, a quarterback last season, has been moved to left end; Bob Karwales, an end, was switched to right tackle, and Marvin Pregulman, first string guard, was shoved into the center berth.

A senior letterman, Elmer Madar, will be at the end opposite Sharpe; Al Wistert, a prominent All-America choice at his regular left tackle berth; and Julius Frank and Bob Kolcsar at the guard spots.

It will not take long to determine Michigan's exact strength as the Wolverines open Sept. 26 with the Great Lakes Naval Training station team. Other opponents are Michigan State, the Iowa City Naval Cadets, Northwestern, Minnesota, Illinois, Harvard, Notre Dame, Ohio State and Iowa.

SOFTBALL TOURNEY OPENS IN DETROIT

DETROIT —(INS)— The 1942 world softball championship games get under way in University of Detroit stadium tonight when 16 men's and nine girls' teams strive for the Pepsi-Cola awards, symbolic of world supremacy.

Bendix Brakes of South Bend, Ind., defending men's champion, will play in the opening game against a team to be drawn by Governor Murray D. Van Wagoner. Principals in the opening girls tilt are undecided and will not be known until the draw is made. Higgins' Midgets of Tulsa, winners last year, disbanded after winning the crown

DISSATISFIED

ANN ARBOR, Mich. —(INS)— Dissatisfied with the work of the Michigan squad, Coach Fritz Crisler ordered stiff workouts for the Wolverines today in preparation for their opener with the Great Lakes Bluejackets a week from Saturday.

DOUBLE CATCH ON ONE LINE

Playoff Goes To 7 Games

Birds and Blues Settle One Argument Tonight.

(By Associated Press)

The American association is having as much difficulty determining its playoff winner as it did its league champion.

Columbus and Kansas City will settle one of the semi-final playoffs tonight, the Red Birds having forced the best of seven game series to the limit last night by winning, 4-1, and squaring the playoff at three victories apiece.

The Toledo-Milwaukee series also could end tonight, if Toledo won. Otherwise this engagement will go the limit, too.

The Mudhens went ahead last night, three games to two, by defeating Milwaukee for the second straight time, 8 to 6.

Charles Scores Kayo Over Brown

PITTSBURGH —(INS)— Ezzard Charles, dusky Cincinnati middleweight, looked for greener fields today after scoring a sixth round knockout over Mose Brown, of McKeesport, last night at Pittsburgh.

Charles' fifth consecutive victory in local rings came after two minutes and 51 seconds in the sixth of a scheduled 10 round affair before 9,231 fans who paid a gross gate of $20,778.75.

WORK ON DEFENSE

MINNEAPOLIS —(INS)— Minnesota's troubles with a passing defense were on the way out today. At least a half an hour each day is put aside for pass defense under Lowell "Red" Dawson, backfield coach.

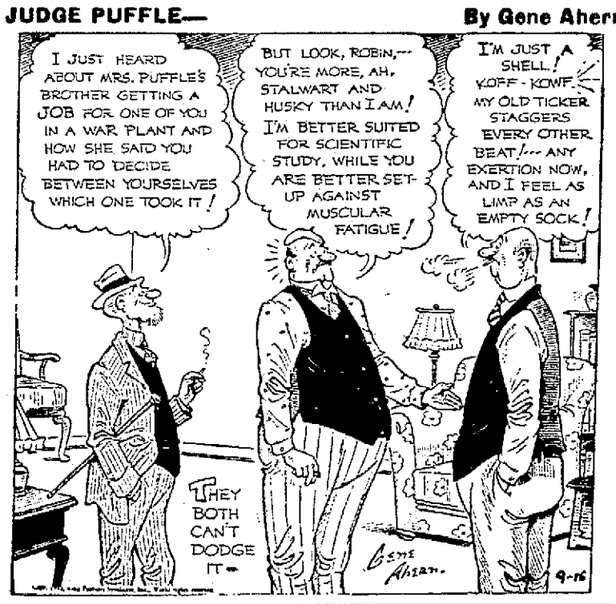
JUDGE PUFFLE— By Gene Ahern



I JUST HEARD ABOUT MRS. PUFFLE'S BROTHER GETTING A JOB FOR ONE OF YOU IN A WAR PLANT AND HOW SHE SAID YOU HAD TO DECIDE BETWEEN YOURSELVES WHICH ONE TOOK IT!
BUT LOOK, ROBIN,— YOU'RE MORE, AH, STALWART AND HUSKY THAN I AM! I'M BETTER SUITED FOR SCIENTIFIC STUDY, WHILE YOU ARE BETTER SET-UP AGAINST MUSCULAR FATIGUE!
I'M JUST A SHELL! KOFF - KOFF! MY OLD TICKER STAGGERS EVERY OTHER BEAT!— ANY EXERTION NOW, AND I FEEL AS LIMP AS AN EMPTY SOCK!
THEY BOTH CAN'T DODGE IT—

POSTS BULLETIN ON HIS EFFORTS

BOSTON—(U.P.)—If John Laxton ever gets into the armed service his "cheering section" will breathe a sigh of relief.

Laxton, who towers six feet, 11½ inches, has been rejected by the army, navy, coast guard, marines, air forces, military police, prisoner escort service because of his height.

To keep his many friends informed of his efforts to join, he posts day-by-day bulletins at his place of employment. At the top of the board he has printed, "I really tried."

MODEST GAINS POSTED BY FEW STOCK LEADERS

Market Holds Steady For Most Part; Exports Increased By 65 Per Cent.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK — Stocks were steady in today's market dealings with a number of leaders posting modest gains.

Higher were General Electric Corn Products, N. Y. Central, Standard Oil (NJ), United Air Lines and Paramount. Unchanged to a shade lower were General Motors, Texas company and Pennsylvania. Montgomery Ward dipped half a point on the initial transaction.

Attracting attention in financial quartres was the report of the census bureau disclosing United States exports—exclusive of shipments to our own armed forces—totaled $4,025,688,000 in the first seven months of this year, an increase of 64 per cent compared with a year ago.

Official sources indicated this was the highest total for a comparable period since 1920.

General imports in the first seven months amounted to $1,651,741,000, a drop of about 12 per cent from last year.

U. S. PREPARES RATION BOOKS

Four More To Be Issued Soon; Fuel Limitation in Ohio Will Start Oct. 1.

plating a 25 per cent cut in average consumption, was ordered for not only the Atlantic seaboard but for Minnesota, Wisconsin, Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, Ohio, Missouri, Iowa, Kansas, Nebraska, North Dakota, South Dakota and Kentucky. On July 29, the WPB had ordered all fuel oil deliveries stopped until midnight last night.

Under the new plan, home owners will be allowed to fill their tanks between now and Oct. 1 if the tank holds no more than 275 gallons. Non-residential users will be limited to 50 per cent of capacity.

On Oct. 1, although rationing books may not be available by then, all deliveries will be counted against the rationing book. Persons receiving oil will be forced to sign a guarantee that they will surrender the equivalent in coupons once books are actually received. Although no definite figure was given, Nelson said that normal winter use of oil may be cut "as much as 25 per cent."

The first ration book will contain 192 coupons on eight pages, each page a separate color and each coupon separately designated by number and letter. The OPA also explained:

"The design makes possible the use of the book for straight coupon rationing such as now used for sugar, or use of the point system whereby the consumer may 'spend' his ration on various grades and kinds of a general type of commodity. The book is adequate for rationing of at least two major groups of commodities for a minimum of six months."

Consumers, it was said, will obtain their ration book on the basis of their previous registration for war ration book No. 1, the sugar ration book. The first book in the new series will be designated as ration book No. 2 but what commodities it will be used for are being kept secret to prevent hoarding.

In still another rationing move, Nelson delegated to the OPA authority to ration meat. He also gave OPA power to control meat distribution through packers and wholesalers. The latter comprised a special authorization to allow the OPA to move immediately because, it was said, "it will be some time before the OPA is ready to ration meat at the consumer level." Issuance of an order to control meat distribution, pending rationing, "will be announced shortly," the OPA stated.

MANSFIELD NEWS IN BRIEF

Bicycle Stolen—John Isch, jr., 419 Lida street, reported to police last night that his bicycle had been stolen from the vicinity of the Ritz theater.

Held in Jail — Arrested here by deputy sheriffs, Herman Clay, 39, of 111½ North Main street, was held today in the county jail for Summit county officials who want him on a non-support charge.

Bitten by Dog—Bushnell Stone, Mansfield R. D. 1, told police yesterday that he was bitten on a leg by a dog belonging to Mrs. M. Tenazevich, 14 West Sixth street. Captain John Miller and Patrolman Russell Miles ordered the dog confined for 10 days.

Two Drivers Cited — Dorothy Roesler, Cleveland, posted bond of $16.30 and waived traffic court hearing yesterday following her arrest by Motorcycle Patrolman Earl Korn and Richard Hecht on the charge of speeding 55 miles an hour on West Park drive. Edwin Laramie, Canton, posted bond following his arrest on a charge of speeding 50 miles an hour on Park avenue east.

Back To Jail — Three young women were back in county jail today to serve out the suspended portions of sentences imposed some weeks ago on disorderly conduct charges. The trio had been released from custody last week after serving parts of their penalties but failed to leave the city, as instructed to do by Municipal Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch who today revoked the suspension order.

Rent Control Now Effective In All But Four States..

WASHINGTON — (INS) — In a sweeping move, the office of price administration, today extended its rent control regulations to areas in all but four of the nation's 48 states, as it named 54 more defense rental areas.

The CPA now has established mandatory rent control in 189 areas, and later will extend it to more than 390 cities. About 50,000,000 people, it was said, will be living in areas under federal rent control when the regulations become effective in the new areas.

The only new Ohio defense area comprises Sandusky, Port Clinton and Erie, Huron, Ottawa and Sandusky counties. The freeze date there was set as of March 1, 1942.

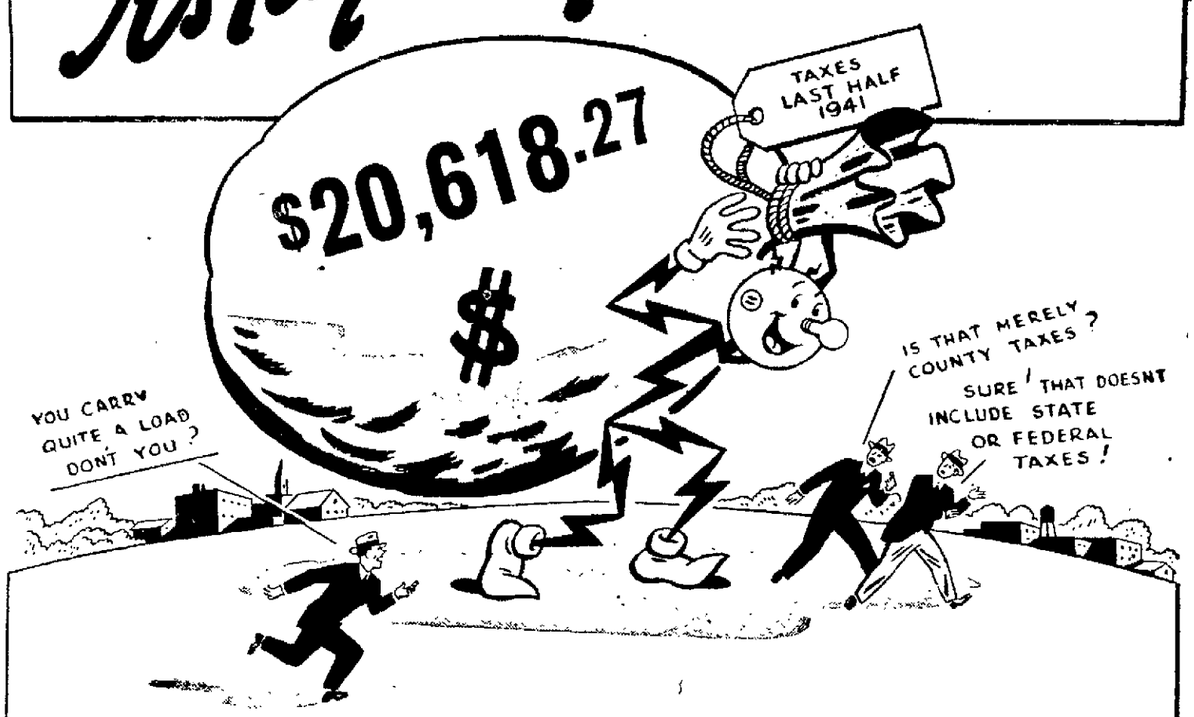
It's Pay Day IN RICHLAND COUNTY



Yes sir, folks, it's pay day for your County and it gives me a great deal of pleasure to have so important a part in that pay day. The amount of money that my local boss, Mr. J. A. Herbert, is handing over to your County Treasurer amounts to $20,618.27 . . . and that just pays for the last half of 1941. Believe me, folks, that's going to help a lot toward paying for school operating expenses, road repairs, fire protection, police protection and other governmental expenses.
And please don't forget, either, that this County tax bill is only a small part of my total tax bill. You bet your life! I pay a lot of taxes in addition, taxes to state governments, and the United States government. You know, it takes a lot of money to ke
